SENATE VOTES WIDE QUIZ OF PRICE OF MILK

The Post's Articles on Retail Costs Here Win Action.

By DANIEL B. MAHER.

The resolution of Senator William H. King (Democrat), of Utah, calling for an inquiry into milk prices in the District to determine whether a monopoly is pegging prices, yesterday received the unanimous approval of the Senate.

The inquiry, which is the climax of a series of articles in The Washington Post, which showed the disparity between milk prices in the District and those in effect in other large cities, will begin within a week, it was indicated by the chairman of the Senate District Committee.

The investigation is not expected to take more than two or three weeks, and Senator King expects that it will be completed before adjournment.

Reputation for Persistency.

He will call a meeting of the District committee within a few days, at which he will designate the members of the subcommittee which will conduct the probe.

The veteran senator, who is known for his persistency in following through the legislation he sponsors, does not expect to sit on the committee. He prefers that the investigation he handled by the younger members of the committee who will be able to devote sufficient time to it.

"The subcommittee," Senator King said, "will make a fair, impartial, complete and vigorous investigation into milk prices in Washington."

Sidetracked in Congestion.

He had not decided last night what witnesses would be summoned before the committee, but all would be called who are in a position to give information as to the reason for the higher prices prevailing here.

On the Senate floor, Senator King explained that at the last session of Congress, the Senate District Committee had unanimously approved a resolution calling for a similar investigation, but that the matter was sidetracked because of the congestion of the calendar.

"The agitation has been renewed this year and we have had a great many complaints by citizens concerning the milk prices as well as requests for an investigation of them. It is claimed that there is a milk monopoly existing in Washington."

3 Kidnap Suspects Escape From Jail

Pipestone, Minn., May 23 (A.P.).—Four men, three of them former convicts held for holdup and kidnaping in Murray County, Minn., escaped from jail early today.

One of the prisoners, who apparently received aid from the outside, was Clyde Smith, 51, Bowling Green, Ohio, who served a term in the Fort Madison, Iowa, prison for assault and robbery.

Captured at Mandan, N. Dak., as suspects in a bank robbery, Smith and two others were brought here on charges of robbing and kidnaping Leland Landers, manager of an oil station at Fulda, Minn.

Hot Springs Man Kills Self in Illinois Hotel

Peoria, Ill., May 23 (A.P.).—Vernon Ashley Dean, 42, Hot Springs, Ark., shot and killed himself in a hotel room here today, police said, while his bride of four months pounded on the door outside.

Four notes which he had written indicated Dean was worried by financial trouble.

Paris Offers League Big Ordnance to Stop Invasions.

Geneva, May 23 (A.P.).—France put a puzzling facer to the disarmament conference today when Foreign Minister Paul-Boncour opposed the destruction of heavy war material and advocated its preservation for use by the League of Nations against an aggressor.

Destruction of heavy war material is provided by the British plan, which is supported by the United States, Italy and Germany.

Thus did the foreign minister of France revive and give new emphasis to the old Tardieu scheme for the internationalization of heavy mobile guns, tanks and other offensive weapons.

A German spokesman, commenting afterward, said that Paul-Boncour's announcement meant that France no longer accepts the British project, for which she has signified acceptance.

M. Paul Boncour explained to the conference that the powers which are committed to give financial help to the country which is victim of an aggression would avoid waste by turn-

Frank Foe of Roosevelt Doctrine on Citing Aggressors.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Plans for bringing the present Disarmament Conference at Geneva to a rapid consummation along the lines of President Roosevelt's appeal to the nations received a setback yesterday when Viscount Ishii, special delegate of the Japanese government, took exception to the President's definition of an "aggressor nation."

Dispatches from the seat of the disarmament discussions also reflected a slight divergence of views on the "aggressor" theory. The Russians believe the definition is too restrictive and others found it "magnificently positive in its very negation."

Japan's chief delegate, who will exchange views with President Roosevelt here for the next four days, was frank in his opposition to the Roosevelt doctrine. He said:

"I admit no such definition. It is my experience that the task of definition is one of the greatest difficulty. The council of the league wanted a definition of this very subject and after appealing to the 14

SWANSON FAVORS BUILDING 32 SHIPS

Secretary Declares Navy Is Drifting Into "State of Obsolescence."

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Swanson last night sought the support of the Nation for a 32-ship naval construction program, declaring the American Navy is drifting into a "state of obsolescence" and that unless it is made first class "it is a useless expense."

The Navy Secretary in an address quoted the words of the late Admiral William A. Moffett, who lost his life in the Akron, that "in time of war the second best navy was no better than the second best hand in a poker game."

Swanson declared that he was not a "big navy man" in the sense that he sought for the Navy the most that he could "induce Congress to appropriate."

"That is not my attitude," he asserted, "nor is it the attitude of the Navy. I would not increase the Navy to the extent of a single rowboat beyond what a sane appreciation of our necessities involve."

He said the naval construction program backed by him was drawn with the idea of having a first-class Navy and one adequate to protect American interests should trouble arise.

He outlined it as comprising the building of 20 destroyers, 4 submarines, 4 cruisers, 2 aircraft carriers and 2 gunboats.

"Authorization of these vessels," he declared, "will stimulate industry and labor. Many thousands of men would be employed directly, and many more thousands indirectly, in the construction of these vessels. The steel industry, the railroads and allied lines throughout the length and breadth of the land will of necessity benefit.

"I know of no more effective and praiseworthy way of giving our industrial life that country-wide stimulus which it so sorely needs than by devoting a portion of the money and energy which is to be used for public construction for the vital arm of our national defense.

"The construction contemplated is not excessive. The cost is moderate, but it is sufficient to start the hum of activity in our shipbuilding industry which is an important national asset. It means, moreover, the commencement of a program to give us vessels of a type and fitness which we require if this country is to be in position to maintain for its citizens the rights to which they are entitled along the water arteries of the world."

Louderback Ruling Is in Store Today

(Associated Press.)

A verdict in store today, the Senate last night came to the final chapter of the impeachment trial of Federal Judge Harold Louderback, of California, after hearing his own story from the witness stand.

Louderback said that not a penny of the fees allowed the receivers and their attorneys in cases before him had gone into his pockets in his five years on the Federal bench.

As he concluded, the defense rested its fight for "complete exoneration" and with a brief bit of rebuttal evidence, the House prosecution closed. Each side was given two hours for arguments to begin at 10 a. m. today.

On conclusion of these arguments the senators will meet behind closed doors to discuss the case and vote without further debate.

STATE DEPARTMENT AID LEAPS TO DEATH

John T. Kodding Leaves Suicide Note on Steamer Bound for Havana.

John T. Kodding, 33, State Department foreign officer, leaped to his death from the Ward Liner Oriente en route to Havana some time Monday night, according to an Associated Press dispatch received here last night.

The captain of the liner reported to Havana authorities that Kodding left a note stating that he had decided to commit suicide. The contents of the letter were not made public. He was going to Havana for a brief rest and vacation, the dispatch said.

At the Chevy Chase Club, where he lived, it was said that he left Washington Friday, saying he was going to his home in Williamsburg, Pa., for a week-end visit. State Department officials said that Kodding had not notified them of his intention to leave the country. They could give no reason for his action.

Members at the Chevy Chase Club last night were also at a loss to explain why Kodding should take his life. He was studiously inclined, they said, and always cheerful, tak-

The founder and former president of the Harriman National Bank & Trust Co., indicted for alleged falsification of more than $1,600,000 of its accounts, was brought from a Mineola, N. Y., hospital in a private ambulance.

RIGID BLUE SKY BILL IS PASSED; TO APPLY HERE

Senate's Vote Final Hill Action to Publicize Securities Sales.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

The rigorous securities bill, turning the spotlight of publicity upon stocks and bonds sold in Washington, interstate or through the mails, yesterday completed its brief journey through House and Senate and started on the final stretch to the White House.

Following close on Monday's House action, the Senate yesterday approved the conference report on the blue sky measure without a record vote. The President is expected to sign it today.

Yesterday's Senate action gave final congressional approval to the little known proviso requiring full and fair disclosure of the character of all securities sold wholly within the District of Columbia, as well as to those sold between the District and outside jurisdictions.

More Rigid Than Elsewhere.

As the measure originally passed the House, it did not apply to traffic in stocks taking place entirely inside the confines of the District, but only to securities sold over State lines or through the mails.

House conferees reported that the District feature was omitted from the House bill "upon the basis of a misunderstanding." In the final enactment the term "interstate commerce" was broadened by adding, "or within the District of Columbia."

The act thus has the effect of providing the District with a blue-sky law more rigid than it offers States and Territories, where securities may be marketed without Federal intervention so long as interstate communication or transportation systems are not made use of.

Designed for Protection.

The fourth of the long line of major administration measures to go down the legislative road to enactment, the securities bill finally approved yesterday is designed to protect the investing public from fraudulent stock and bond issues by mercilessly airing every fact connected with securities.

The Federal Trade Commission would be set up as the instrument for

Slot-Machine War Seen in Shooting

New York, May 23 (A.P.).—In what authorities described as a flareup of the slot-machine racket, two gunmen invaded a Glendale (Long Island) apartment early tonight and shot to death George Kennedy, 35, and a cabaret singer known as Kitty O'Brien, 26.

Neighbors heard the pistol shots, saw two men run out of the apartment and called police. Kennedy and the woman, known to neighbors as his wife, were shot through the head.

The authorities advanced two theories for the slaying: Retaliation for the slaying in Corona, Queens, a year ago of Louis Goldstein, alias Louis Cohen, a racketeer; or reprisal against Kennedy's usurpation of slot-machine rights in the Glendale-Jamaica area.

Shrinkage Held Cause of No Tax Payment in '31 and '32.

Lengthy Senate Quiz Is Unable to Disturb Banker's Calm.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Only slightly blinded by the dazzling lights of the motion picture setup, J. Pierpont Morgan told the Senate Banking and Currency Committee yesterday how the international banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co. operates, what its business policies are, and indicated approximately how much money it has lost through the shrinkage of security values since the boom days of 1929.

He submitted a list of 167 American and foreign industrial corporations in which Morgan partners are directors, but denied the suggestion of the committee counsel, Ferdinand Pecora, that these directorships necessarily involve an unwholesome conflict of interest between financial and industrial policies.

Mr. Pecora pressed hard in an attempt to jockey Mr. Morgan into an acknowledgement that a banker-director might feel impelled always to violate the interests of the corporation stockholders; but Mr. Morgan insisted repeatedly upon his own view of the matter, which was that if a corporation is wrecked by its directors, the creditor bankers are quite as badly off as the stockholders. Mr. Pecora did not agree wholly with this view, but he allowed Mr. Morgan's statement to stand in the record.

Keyes Called for Examination.

Questioned concerning income tax returns, Mr. Morgan told Mr. Pecora five times that he knew nothing about the details of the firm's reports, but had brought along his office manager, Mr. Leonhard Keyes, who would explain all. Near the end of the day Mr. Pecora called Mr. Keyes to the stand for examination concerning the Morgan return for the calendar year 1931. It had been established previously that because of heavy losses in security depreciation the firm had shown no taxable profit for either 1931 or 1932.

The five-hour committee session, with only a brief interruption for luncheon, was enlivened by several fiery tilts between committee members relative to procedure. Some senators took the position that the committee should know what it was looking for before it launched upon a given line of inquiry. Others took the ground that it might be more fruitful to poke around with hit-or-miss questions and see what came up. In the end the later view prevailed.

Some Loans Unfruitful.

Two central facts were established in the day's inquisition: One that the fiscal year of J. P. Morgan & Co., ends on December 31, the same as the calendar year; and, two, that in the capacity of a private banking house, the firm has extended a number of

COMMITTEE FAVORS RECOVERY TAX BILL

Democratic Leaders See Swife Passage for Industrial Measure.

(Associated Press.)

Saying the added tax burden in the national industrial recovery bill "should be cheerfully borne" because of the employment and benefits to flow from it, the Ways and Means Committee last night filed its formal report on the $3,300,000,000 measure for House action tomorrow.

Approved unanimously by the bipartisan committee, except for a minority disagreement on the $220,000,000 revenue program increasing income and gasoline taxes and making stock dividends subject to the income tax rates, the bill is expected by Democratic leaders to be passed without amendments.

Chairman Doughton in his formal report said the $3,300,000,000 public works program, funded by the tax levies, "should produce an immediate substantial revival of business."

"The industrial recovery program should not only add to this stimulation, but should insure the permanence of a return to better, healthier, and happier conditions throughout the industries of the Nation," the North Carolina Democrat said.

The report was filed hours after the Democratic leaders failed to obtain a closed rule from the Rules Committee precluding amendments to the industrial section. Chairman Dou

THREAT TO PEIPING IS ENDED BY TRUCE

Operations Finished Without Japanese Occupation of Ancient Capital.

Tokyo (Wednesday), May 24 (A.P.).—The war office asserted today that danger of a battle for possession of Peiping was believed over and that a Sino-Japanese truce would become effective very shortly.

Operations in the Peiping area were described as "practically finished" without occupation of the ancient capital by Japanese troops.

The truce, agreement upon which was reported by the Rengo (Japanese) News Agency, provides that Chinese troops shall evacuate Peiping and remain behind a line running from the Great Wall to the north of the ancient capital in a southeasterly direction to the sea.

Meanwhile, the news report said, negotiations for terms of a permanent peace settlement will be opened soon in Peiping.

MONEY STABILIZING PACT IS EXPECTED

Britain Predicts Triangular Agreement With U. S. and France.

London, May 23 (A.P.).—British financial circles expect currency discussions now proceeding in Washington to result in a triangular stabilization agreement between the United States, France and Great Britain.

The dollar, pound and franc would be kept from wide fluctuations during preparatory work and actual sessions of the world economic conference here under the effected agreement.

O. M. W. Sprague, British representative in Washington, is considered here to be the mouthpiece of Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, in the currency talks. It was recalled that when Mr. Norman went to the United States last year his efforts at disguise and secrecy failed to save him from publicity and attention.

The danger of speculation by professional market operators was given as a reason why secrecy in the currency negotiations must be maintained.

An informal understanding, it was said here, may be reached among central banks of the chief world powers to work with the Bank for International Settlements for cooperative operation of funds available to the various governments for stabilization purposes.

British authorities would like to see the dollar stabilized at $3.50 to the pound, but it is believed American officials favored a rate nearer $4. The dollar closed today at $3.91¼. Before the United States went off the gold standard on April 17 the rate was $3.47¼ and the highest point reached since then was $4.06 on May 6.

Uncertainty in London financial circles is not likely to be relieved until some definite announcement is made regarding stabilization.

Paris, May 23 (A.P.).—Finance Minister Georges Bonnet told the French Chamber of Deputies today that no definite decisions could be taken at the world economic conference until the United States and Great Britain stabilized their currencies.

Referring to the abandonment of the gold standard by America and Britain the minister said, "France will not follow the example of world monetary disorder."

"We have called the attention of our friends in the United States and Great Britain," M. Bonnet said, "to the inconveniences resulting from the instability of the pound and the dollar if a rapid stabilization of their monies is not made."

Troops Gas Rioters In Amoskeag Area

Manchester, N. H., May 23 (A.P.).—Rioting broke out anew in the Amoskeag Mill district late tonight and 39 persons were arrested. More than 500 civilians and a score of policemen and National Guardsmen were injured by flying rocks.

The rioting broke out near the State armory, where a crowd of about 2,000 strikers and sympathizers derided the guardsmen and then began throwing rocks. All available troops and policemen were concentrated in the district and a number of tear gas bombs were released in an effort to disperse the gathering.

The police and guardsmen charged into the crowd and collared those believed to have been throwing missiles.

Sold by Sheriff Ed Shinn to satisfy a judgment of the John Hancock, Mutual Life Insurance Co., of Boston, which held a $120,732 mortgage, it was bought in by the company.

Farley to Put Full Administration Weight Behind Repeal

Will Send Letters to All Campaign Workers Urging Them to Work to Remove 18th Amendment

Postmaster General Is Expected to Point to Vote in States.

(Associated Press.)

In a move which would bring the whole weight of the administration behind the repeal movement, Postmaster General Farley announced last night that he would send a letter to all campaign workers urging them to work for removal of the eighteenth amendment from the Constitution.

The Postmaster General is chairman of the Democratic National Committee and in that capacity directed the campaign to place President Roosevelt in the White House.

Because of his nearness to the President and his position as head of the party, such a letter from him would place the matter squarely before the campaign workers as an administration proposal.

The party pledged itself to repeal the eighteenth amendment in the platform adopted by the convention at Chicago that nominated President Roosevelt. Pending repeal, it promised modification of the Volstead law to permit the sale of beer. The latter part of the campaign pledge already has been carried out by the Roosevelt administration.

The Postmaster General looked forward confidently last night to a vote by his home State of New York for repeal when the ballots are counted that were cast yesterday.

In his letter, Farley is expected to point to the vote of the various States that already have recorded themselves for repeal and to call upon the workers to endeavor to secure similar action by the other States.

This will be the first forthright step taken by the administration for the prohibition repeal movement which was started by Congress last February.

Farley, who is in intimate touch with the host of Democratic workers throughout the country, left no doubt of his intent to press the drive throughout the land.

"The Democratic party and President Roosevelt favor repeal," Farley said last night. "This is the time to do it. Without doubt repeal of prohibition will bring in enough revenue to offset the new taxes which Congress is going to enact now to give new jobs.

NEW YORK 20 TO 1 FOR REPEAL

Albany, N. Y. (Wednesday), May 24 (A.P.).—With reports in from 2,266 districts out of 3,837 the vote in New York State's special election early today was 577,542 for repeal of the eighteenth amendment and 29,485 against repeal.

Although nearly 80 per cent of the vote tabulated so far was in New York City, returns from upstate counties, hitherto known as dry strongholds, were piling up a huge majority for repeal in the early returns.

With the vote nearly 20 to 1, New York State was definitely added to the list of five other States which have already voted for repeal. The other States are Michigan, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

The vote in New York indicates a much wetter sentiment than even the wet leaders had hoped. In 1927 the State voted for modification of the eighteenth amendment by a vote of 3 to 1, which led the wets to predict a 6 to 1 victory in yesterday's election.

With all but 644 of New Yorks City's 3,794 election districts reported, the vote there was 868,570 for repeal and 19,759 against. Albany County also turned in a heavy wet vote. One hundred and thirty-one districts out of 202 returned 44,894 votes for repeal and 2,132 against.

The wets were leading in all the 22 upstate counties in which tabulations have been made.

In Erie County 42 districts out of 480 gave 13,393 wet votes and 901 dry. Westchester County, with approximately one-seventh of the districts heard from, gave the wet delegates 15,765 and the drys 1,105.

President Roosevelt's home district in Hyde Park returned a substantial wet vote with 277 votes for repeal and 47 against.

Several New York City districts reported clean sweeps for repeal. In Queens one district voted 356 to 0 for the repeal delegates; in another 310 to 0; in a third 298 to 0. In Brooklyn one district voted 326 to 0 for repeal and another 290 to 0.

Adequate Revenue to Offset New Taxes Is Foreseen.

MARSHALL IS SEEN AS RIVAL TO HOGAN

Chicagoan, Army Jobs Chief During War, May Direct Vast Public Project.

A possible contender against John Philip Hogan for the post of Administrator of Public Works appeared yesterday when Brig. Gen. Richard Coke Marshall, U. S. A., retired, the man who directed the Army's construction work during the World War, was prominenty mentioned to oversee the $3,300,000,000 program now being considered by Congress.

Marshall resigned from the Army in 1920, after supervising the $800,000,000 building program of the Army during the War. More than 400,000 men were employed on this construction at its height. Since 1920 Gen. Marshall has served as general manager of the Associated General Contractors of America, and he is now president of Sumner Sollitt Co., a Chicago construction firm. Mr. Hogan, also an engineer, was in charge of the construction of the Catskills Aqueduct in New York.

Another Presidential appointment continued to hang on the rocks in the Senate yesterday as the Finance Committee inquired into the fitness of Guy T. Helvering for the commissionership of internal revenue. In executive session, the committee delved into allegations that Helvering, while a representative from Kansas, distributed postmaster appointments in relation to campaign fund contributions. His activities as tax attorney for oil companies is also being probed. Helvering is chairman of the Democratic State committee of Kansas and is a vice chairman of the Democratic national committee.

A number of other appointments were confirmed by the Senate yesterday. They included Pat Malloy as Assistant Attorney General; Ewin L. Davis, as a member of the Federal Trade Commission; Norman D. Godbold, as judge of the First Federal Circuit of Hawaii, and Al W. Hosinski, as U. S. marshal for the Northern District of Indiana. Davis' appointment was approved out of order, immediately after a favorable committee report. Senator White, of Maine, a Republican, urged Davis' confirmation on the score of the appointee's 12 years' service as representative from Tennessee.

ing over war materials to the league instead of having them manufactured anew by or for the state attacked.

The French minister flatly announced that France would not reduce her armaments unless a definite system of mutual assistance is created, supplemented by genuine supervision of armaments.

Before the conference met today, the big five in secret session with President Arthur Henderson, decided to pursue simultaneously the conference discussions of disarmamant and security.

This decision came as a compromise since Mr. Davis had desired that the arms reduction provisions of the British plan should take up the full time of the conference, while the French delegation was equally insistent that the security question should come first.

American Participation Is Seen Unlikely Here

(Associated Press.)

Official Washington carefully evaluated last night a spectacular French proposal that all offensive arms be pooled for use against aggressor nations and the opinion crystalized rapidly that American participation was hardly possible.

In most quarters the view was expressed that it was beyond the realm of possibility to obtain ratification of such an agreement from a Senate already showing, in some instances, signs of uneasiness over the new policy of American cooperation for the preservation of peace.

The French suggestion was prompted, officials thought, by a desire to enforce to the utmost the condessions that have been made to the traditional and ever-persisting demand of the French for assured security from attack.

Some here saw in the proposal a changing French attitude resulting from the conditional American pledge not to interfere with collective efforts to prevent war and approval of the Mussolini four-power pact to keep Europe at peace for the next ten years.

Viscount Ishii Says Japan Seeks Harmony in America

The text of the press statement issued yesterday by Viscount Ishii follows:

Mr. Fukai, vice governor of the Bank of Japan, and I have come in response to the cordial invitation extended to our government by your President. Our Prime Minister, Viscount Saito, might have come himself, but the exigencie of his office would not permit of his absence from home for so long a time as is required in crossing the Pacific and the Continent. So the mission has devolved upon us.

The economic crisis now confronting the world can not be dissipated by independent and unorganized efforts of individual nations. Your President wants to pool the intelligence and wisdom of all nations in order to cope with this unprecedented crisis. More important still, he wants to pool the world's friendliness and good will. Obviously, mutual suspicion and mutual spirit of recrimination must give way to mutual trust and mutual sympathy, if the problems which stand in the way of the world's recovery are to be solved by international efforts.

In this spirit your President has summoned us, and in this spirit we have responded.

We shall gladly consider with the President and the Secretary of State whatever matters may be deemed necessary to consider. We are invited guests and are at the service of the host. We have come, not to negotiate, much less to bargain. We have come to talk things over in a neighborly spirit. Evidently the President thinks heart-to-heart conversations the best way to arrive at understanding and accord.

The President's conversations with the representatives of the various governments seem already to have created an atmosphere of confidence and sympathy among the nations concerned. Thanks to this changed feeling, the coming conference at London presages a success. At least it will not be launched upon an uncharted sea.

As between the United States and Japan, the economic and financial problems are not so complicated. We have no war debts or reparations to discuss. Our trade relations with America are complementary rather than competitive.

This does not mean that there are no problems between the two nations. But with the will on each side to appreciate the other's difficulties, there is no reason why harmony can not be attained. It is our sincere desire to establish accord with America and to contribute our share toward the recovery and recuperation of the world.

Speaking for myself, this is my third official visit to Washington. In 1917, I came here as Japan's wartime special envoy. On that grave occasion my duty was to assure your Government that Japan was in wholehearted sympathy with the measures taken by you to meet the great emergency which then confronted you, and that Japan wished to cooperate with you in every practicable way. The memory of the graciousness and cordiality with which President Wilson received me and the frankness and sympathy with which he talked to me is still fresh in my mind, and has always been a source of gratitude not only on my own part but on the part of our nation.

I am here again on a similar mission—a messenger of good will, offering Japan's cooperation to your Government. I am sure that when I leave Washington I shall carry away with me, as I did in 1917, a memory of a President who is eminently fair and who is animated with a sympathetic desire to appreciate the peculiar problems and difficulties of other nations.

Forest Camps for Women Urged by Mrs. Roosevelt

First Lady Believes Plan Feasible Under Which Jobless Would Be Employed in Tree Nurseries or in Work on Farms.

Reforestation camps for unemployed women under the same plan as the camps for men are regarded as feasible by Mrs. Roosevelt, it was revealed at her press conference yesterday. Mrs. Roosevelt has received a letter on this subject which she has shown to President Roosevelt and referred to the Secretary of Labor, Miss Frances Perkins. Mrs. Roosevelt has interested herself in the question of unemployment among women and has been anxious to consider remedies. Among these suggestions has been that of women working in forestry nurseries. Authorities have stated that women could do this kind of work. Another suggestion has been that unemployed women be sent in groups to farms.

Mrs. Roosevelt as wife of the Assistant Secretary of the Navy during the World War, took an interest in the work of the land army, or "Farmerettes," which did so much to plant crops while the men of the farms were serving with the armed forces.

Mrs. Roosevelt refused to comment on the censure on beer at the White House voted by the Baptist convention.

ISHII REVEALS TOKYO DELAYING DISARMAMENT OVER WORLD

Jurisconsults of the court were finally unable to get a definition because they could not agree on a definition."

Viscount Kikujiro Ishii is one of the great statesmen of Japan. He has been ambassador here and abroad and combines the urbanity of the Occidental diplomat with the resourcefulness of the Oriental.

He held his first conference with the press yesterday at his temporary home in the Hotel Mayflower here. By a remarkable coincidence the conference was held in the Chinese room of the hotel, a large salon filled with the characteristic dragon red furniture and gilded draperies. Some one pointed out this fact to the viscount, who remarked pleasantly:

"Ah, yes. Well, we are always happy to receive the hospitality of the Chinese."

Just about the same time the cabled reports from the Far East were announcing the advance of Japanese troops upon Peiping and in the direction of Tientsin. When he was questioned about the Japanese military movements in Manchukuo, Japan's delegate declared:

"We have no intention of extending the Manchukuo control to Peiping and Tientsin. We should like to be able to consider the Great Wall the boundary of China, but under the present circumstances, it is not always possible to predict the direction of a military operation."

The discussion of the Roosevelt aggression theory is also giving considerable perplexity to the Japanese delegation to the disarmament conference. Ambassador at Large Norman H. Davis has been informally approached by several of the delegation with the purpose of making some further statements to clarify or limit the extent of the President's proposal.

Difficulties of Interpretation.

The former Japanese ambassador here pointed out that one of the difficulties from the Japanese point of view would be the interpretation of a certain action taking place in one part of the world as aggression while the same act in the particular periphery of the action would not be so regarded.

This exception was taken naturally in view of the prolonged movements of Japanese troops in China. Japanese armies have progressively assimilated a large part of Manchuria under the titular direction of Emperor Pu Yi of Manchukuo. They have not ceased their operations here, however.

The Japanese advance has continued and under the present circumstances, unless specific exception is made in favor of the Japanese situation in China, the Japanese would fall under the President's definition of an aggressor which is the "country sending armed forces across its boundaries."

Trade Relations Complementary.

The main object of the Japanese-American exchange of views will be confined to the particular problems which interest them more than the rest of the world. As the Japanese statesmen declared yesterday:

"As between the United States and Japan, the economic and financial problems are not so complicated. We have no debts or reparations to discuss. Our trade relations with America are complementary rather than competitive.

"This does not mean that there are no problems between the two nations. But with the will on each side to appreciate the other's difficulties, there is no reason why harmony can not be attained."

Conference With Hull.

The vice governor of the Bank of Japan, Eiji Fukai, was also present with Viscount Ishii, and afterward declared that Japan is prepared to stabilize the yen at its present level, provided such a stabilization will be of permanent and not transitory effect. He agreed with the American experts on the necessity of a sound financial and fiduciary policy if the economic policies of the world are to be finally grounded on a stable basis.

Further conferences took place at the Department of State yesterday with Secretary Hull, Assistant Secretary Moley, former Gov. Cox and Senator Pittman.

It became known last night that this delegation, with the exception of Prof. Moley, will go to London together with Dr. Herbert Feis, the economist of the Department of State, and James W. Warburg, who will be attached to the delegation as a member of the Treasury Department. Warren Delano Robbins will sail for London today in advance of the delegation, and the rest of the group will go May 31.

U. of Md. Paper Indorses $50 Fee on D. C. Students

The recent decision by the board of regents of the University of Maryland to raise the registration fee $50 for District of Columbia students was upheld in an editorial appearing yesterday in the Diamondback, official university publication.

"An unofficial survey," the editorial went on to say, "would indicate that enrollment from Washington will not fall off in the next registration. The District students who, by the way, contribute in great part to that section of undergraduates called campus leaders, will no doubt realize the need which fathered the action, and will assume the new responsibility."

The ruling, which has caused great consternation among the ranks of the Washington students attending the university, was pointed out as a necessity in face of the recent legislative cut of approximately 40 per cent in the institution's appropriations.

"They felt that Washingtonians were being afforded a privilege," the article said in referring to the legislators' action. "While they should like to continue it in reciprocity for similar education favors extended Marylanders in the past, financial arrangements would not permit."

COL. YOUNG TO QUIT AIR OFFICE JUNE 15

Member of Little Cabinet Is Likely to Take Over Aeronautics Post.

Col. Clarence M. Young, Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Aeronautics, under whose supervision the Nation's airways system largely has been developed, has requested President Roosevelt to relieve him of all duties by June 15, it was learned yesterday.

The move marks a forward step in the Democratic reorganization plan of the Department of Commerce. It is not expected that the post will be filled by an Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Aeronautics. Rather, indications point that a member of the Little Cabinet will be designated to handle all transportation matters, including aviation, shipping, rail, inland waterways and others.

Col. Young submitted his resignation to the White House March 4, but was asked to stay on his post pending the completion of the reorganization plan. He now plans to make one trip around the Government's airways system. This will require about two weeks, and will enable him to complete several pieces of work now pending.

No indication was forthcoming from Col. Young as to his plans for the future, although it is believed that he will enter commercial aviation rather than return to his law practice. Members of the aeronautics branch of the Department of Commerce tendered their popular head a farewell party on Monday in his office, presenting him with his desk and his chair. Gilbert G. Budwig, one of Col. Young's assistants, in charge of air regulations, resigned his post on Monday.

Meanwhile, it appears that James C. Edgerton will head the Government's commercial aviation administration whatever form it may take in the future. For many years closely associated with Secretary Roper and backed by Senator McAdoo, Mr. Edgerton has had a wide experience in aeronautics both as a flier and in administrative work. Other names being prominently mentioned include Col. J. Carroll Cone and Gene Vidal.

Federal Reserve Buys U. S. Bonds

Seeking to ease the credit situation of the country, the Federal Reserve System yesterday made the first of its open market operations under the inflation bill, by purchasing $25,000,000 worth of Government securities.

By buying these securities from banks, the Reserve System will put about $25,000,000 more money into circulation. Banks which hold the Government securities will give them up for currency, thereby having more money to lend. The movement does not constitute a currency inflation, as no new money is being issued. Instead, the country will be able to borrow some $25,000,000 more from banks and the purchase of bonds will keep up their prices.

In announcing the operations, Secretary of the Treasury Woodin explained that it was only the first purchase, and that others would be made from time to time as conditions demanded them. The Thomas amendment to the farm bill, which is authority for inflation, permits such purchases up to $3,000,000,000.

Tests of Teachers To Begin June 26

Announcement was made yesterday that the first examinations for the establishment of lists of eligibles for junior high school and elementary school teaching positions under the raised standards of eligibility will be held June 26 and 27.

The physical examination will be held in the girls' gymnasium of Central at 9 a. m., June 28. The oral examination for out-of-town condidates will be held during the three days at a time and place to be designated during the written examination.

Complete information as to eligibility requirements and the examinations is available in the office of Mrs. Mildred H. Gropp, chief examiner of white schools, at Franklin School Administration Building.

Transfer of Mills From Gary Denied

Gary, Ind., May 23 (A.P.).—Rumors that United States Steel Corporation would remove its Gary mills to Pittsburgh were branded as "absurd" today in a telegram from W. A. Irwin, president, to the Gary Post-Tribune.

The rumors were based on a report that foundations of the Gary plant were sinking.

President Irwin drew attention to a letter written by former President Myron C. Taylor, who said: "We have no thought of limiting our activities in Gary, but on the contrary, it is quite likely that when demand for our products resumed in sufficient volume, our activities at Gary might well be increased."

Three children suffered slight cuts when the wind shattered windows in the high school. A memorial arch erected in honor of World War soldiers was toppled over.

Reports that several persons were killed in nearby Norwalk and Kendall were unfounded.

Minister and Coed On Honeymoon

Randolph, Iowa, May 23 (A.P.).—The Rev. Sharon C. Inman, 34-year-old former pastor of the Cave Springs, Mo., church, and the bride for whom he abandoned family and pastorate were honeymooning here today at the home of his parents.

The bride, formerly Ezia (Patsy) Holdridge, 21-year-old blonde coed, and the minister revealed they were married last Thursday at Sayre, Okla. The minister's love affair was revealed when he left Cave Springs with the girl after informing his wife of the affair. The wife, Mrs. Gladys Inman, later obtained a divorce. Inman faced church charges of conduct unbecoming to a minister. These were dropped when he resigned his pastorate.

Colored Masonic Temple Is Locked

Officers and members of the Acacia Grand Lodge and the Order of the Eastern Star, colored Masons, were locked out of the New Masonic Temple, Tenth and U streets, yesterday, by Frank B. Bryan, corseciver with Gilbert A. Clark, of the National Benefit Life Insurance Co., which company holds title to the building. The grand lodge and its auxiliary occupied the upper three floors of the six-story building.

A large number of members of the Masonic fraternity who gathered for various communications milled about the corridors when restrained from entering their lodge rooms, but received no instructions from their grand lodge officers. The grand lodge had been served with a 30-day notice to quit on a suit by the corecelvers for $14,000 rent, but had not expected the drastic action yesterday.

John E. Laskey, attorney for the receivers, stated last night that he had advised certain action on the part of corecelvers, which did not contemplate their securing a writ of possession nor a trespass. The building was completed in November, 1929, with the insurance company as owners. Subsequently a contract was made between the company and the fraternity, in June, 1930, which continued until voided by the corecelvers in December, 1932, for default.

The measure was approved at the request of Chairman William H. King of the Senate District Committee.

ATTEMPTS TO DRAW MOONEY JURY FAIL

35 of 46 Talesmen Rejected as Judge Ward Pushes Court Proceedings.

San Francisco, May 23 (A.P.).—Tom Mooney's "new deal," a long-hoped-for trial on an old indictment in connection with the bombing of the 1916 Preparedness Day parade, got under way today, with the first session devoted to an unsuccessful attempt to get a jury from the initial panel of 46 veniremen.

As strange a trial as ever a jury heard, with the prosecution willingly accepting jurors as drawn and intending to present no evidence, the proceedings moved briskly along in the court of Superior Judge Louis H. Ward.

There was Mooney, florid and quiet, with his attorneys, headed by the veteran Thomas J. Walsh. Among the spectators was the defendant's mother, Mary Mooney, and Mooney's wife, Rena.

Mooney had been brought to the county jail here a few days ago from San Quentin, where he has been serving a life sentence for conviction at his first trial for bombing the 1916 parade, which resulted in loss of ten lives.

Straight through, without any time out for lunch, until the panel had been exhausted was the rigor that Judge Ward applied to the opening day of the trial. Even an intimation of a motion for a lunch recess was denied, and when adjournment was taken for the day 35 of the 46 talesmen in the panel had been excused either for cause or by peremptory challenge. Of the eleven remaining in the jury box, seven were women. A new panel was ordered for tomorrow.

At the outset Judge Ward said he would not allow the trial to become an instrument for Mooney to use in an attempt to free himself from his life sentence. Mooney supporters hope that an acquittal in the present case would aid them in getting a pardon on the first conviction.

MORGAN QUIZ DRAWS JAM OF SPECTATORS

Senator Byrnes Recollects Crowds at Congressional Inquiry in 1912.

(Associated Press.)

On the word of Senator Byrnes (Democrat), South Carolina, the appearance of a Morgan before a congressional committee brings the crowds.

Byrnes was a member of the House Committee that called the elder J. P. Morgan in 1912.

"We had the jam that day that we had this time," Byrnes said. "Then, too, I was struck by the resemblence of the two men. They looked alike, their voices are alike and their manner on the stand is almost identical."

The crowd about the door was so dense during the morning yesterday that members of the committee and Morgan had to enter by a door that led through another room. Police finally roped off an area about the door.

Spectators were already filling out of the room after committee members had called an executive session, during the afternoon, when Morgan said he felt that Leonard Keyes, the office manager for the firm, should be put on the stand to explain the $21,000,000 loss claimed for 1931. There was such a rush back into the seats that one man was knocked sprawling.

The heat grew as the hearing continued and finally even committee members unbuttoned vests and loosened ties but, sitting in a body behind J. P. Morgan, the bankers with him made no concessions, save for a frequent use of pocket handkerchiefs.

loans to banks, bankers and corporations during the last five years which have not panned out precisely according to expectations.

There was no direct estimate of the total losses involved in these operations, but a statement of deposits showed a shrinkage from $562,406,896 at the end of 1927 to $340,000,000 as of December 31, 1932.

Depression Surprised Morgan.

By implication, Mr. Morgan revealed, in examination touching income tax matters, that he did not anticipate in 1930 that the present depression would be quite so tough as it has been, or that it would last so long. He voiced the modest hope that some time soon his firm would be able to show another annual profit.

Mr. Morgan took the witness stand in a genial mood and never allowed the harsh presumptive implications of the committee questions to ruffle him. Senator Couzens, of Michigan, asked him at one point if, as in the case of the Morgan-tax return under discussion, Federal revenue agents had not once passed upon and okayed the report of Charles E. Mitchell, former president of the National City Bank, who is now on trial in New York under the income tax laws. Mr. Morgan took the thrust with a smile, but rather left the question to answer itself.

If Mr. Morgan resented the suggestion of Mr. Pecora, to the effect that a banker-director in an industrial corporation could hardly be expected to deal fairly with everybody, he did not show it.

"My father always told me we would have to do it," the witness said at this point, in explaining that it is always good policy for a banking house to see that enterprises in which it has investments are soundly managed.

Fletcher Pays Compliment.

Senator Fletcher, of Florida, the committee chairman, once led up to the question whether the Morgan firm did not operate something like a money monopoly in New York.

"If these people don't borrow from you, then they can't borrow from anybody else, can they?" Senator Flethcher demanded.

"Why not?" Mr. Morgan replied.

"Because after Morgan turns them down, nobody else will lend to them," Fletcher answered the witness.

"I thank the senator," Mr. Morgan said. "That is a fine compliment to us, but I don't think there is anything we can do about it."

Too Many Questions.

Senator Glass once interposed a vigorous objection to Mr. Pecora's "badgering the witness." Pecora hotly resented this slur. He said he was only looking for facts. Senator Couzens leaped to the defense of Mr. Pecora. Before the three-way exchange was over, Senator Barkley was moving an executive session, "to permit members of the committee to adjust their differences."

Couzens seconded this motion.

At another point Mr. Morgan was assailed by three questions simultaneously from as many senators. He turned in bewilderment to John W. Davis, his attorney, who sat close behind him throughout the day, for a hint as to whom he should answer first. But before the decision could be made Mr. Pecora threw in a brand-new question. The three questions from the senators were gradually forgotten.

The crowded committee room enjoyed this episode as well as any of the day.

Quest of List.

Voluminous documentary material was placed in the record by Mr. Morgan and his partners, assistants, attorneys and accountants. Approximately twenty persons made up the banker's party. When they discovered that no counsel table had been provided for them, they stood one of the document trunks on end and used that as a temporary base of operations.

Among other things, Mr. Pecora had asked in his preparatory inquiries for a list of all the corporations which carry balances with the Morgan bank averaging $1,000,000 or more for the year.

"Have you such a list?" Mr. Pecora asked.

"Yes," said Mr. Morgan.

"Will you present it?"

The List Is Found.

"Who's got that list?" the witness inquired as he turned upon his supporting banks of assistants. A man three rows back quickly passed it forward.

It carried about 30 corporation names, many of them large and successful enterprises, such as General Motors, American Telephone & Telegraph, General Electric, E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., Inc., the Pullman Co., Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, United States Steel Corporation, the Reading Co., United Gas Improvement, Standard Brands and others.

In a somewhat meandering cross-examination touching this list of depositors, it was developed that they each carried an average annual balance of $1,000,000 or more with J. P. Morgan and Co., and that the Morgan partnership frequently served these and other firms with financial advice, with loans, foreign transfers, or in various and sundry other banking functions. It was admitted, further, that in the days when there was an investment market in the United States, the Morgan firm even had floated the stock or bond issues of such corporations, for public subscription.

1931 Tax Returns.

Mr. Pecora expressed repeated doubts concerning the clarity of the Morgan partnership tax returns for 1931. It developed that two returns had been filed for that year, one for the two-day period January 1 to 2, inclusive, and the other for the balance of the year. The first return showed a loss of $21,071,862.95. Mr. Pecora put it in the record from his own questions that this arrangement possibly was a device of the Morgan firm to carry the 1930 losses forward into 1931, so that, under the law, they might be deducted from anticipated profits in 1932 and 1933.

Mr. Keyes, who manages all such details at 23 Wall street, said this was not a fact. He said that when S. Parker Gilbert, former agent general for reparations, was taken into the banking firm as a partner on January 2, 1931, the old articles of partnership were dissolved. As the new partnership was formed, the security depreciation between the last previous inventory on June 30, 1930, and January 2, 1931, was written off the capital structure.

Mr. Keyes explained that such a revaluation of securities was required and inescapable when a new partnership was formed.

Mr. Pecora insisted that the new partnership should have been formed on December 31, 1930, which would have prevented, as he saw it, the charging of the 1930 losses against any possible profits in 1933.

It was also explained by Mr. Keyes that new partnerships had been formed in previous years at other than year-end dates. New members usually were taken into the firm soon after the death of another partner. Partners didn't always die in the last quarter of the year.

Values Increases Noted.

At another point, Mr. Keyes explained that in the lush years, 1926-29, when such reorganizations of the partnership occurred, the increase in security values had been taken into account. Such appreciation of capital assets had resulted in considerably more taxes for the earlier years, he said.

Mr. Davis objected to placing the Morgan articles of partnership in the record, on the ground that the private relations of the partners one to the other could not be regarded as a matter of public concern so long as the firm itself remained in good standing in the community.

In a hastily summoned executive session the committee voted to look at the articles and decide later whether they should be made public.

Similar action was voted in regard to a list of Morgan loans outstanding among officers of other New York banks.

In relation to this list, Mr. Davis argued that the Morgan partners had no hesitancy in offering the list in their own behalf; but they questioned the propriety of the committees' forcing the Morgan bank to publish the confidences of their borrowing clients.

"Impossible to Collect."

Senator Glass argued vigorously that a citizen might have some rights in such a situation, but in executive session, the committee took the view that the list might be a good one to look at.

Earlier, Mr. Pecora had argued that a loan from a private bank to an officer of a commercial bank might establish a "peculiar relationship." In response to questions along this line Mr. Morgan had acknowledged that some of these banker loans were overdue, and others undercollateralized. Asked why the notes had not been paid up, Mr. Morgan said he felt confident his firm had made every effort to collect from those in a position to pay.

"Sometimes in these days it is simply impossible to collect," he observed philosophically.

When Mr. Morgan said he had no accurate knowledge concerning the partnership income tax returns for certain years, Mr. Pecora bristled a bit and inquired, "I am justified in assuming that you have a substantial participation in the income and profits of the firm?"

"I have, sir; and I might remind you, Mr. Pecora, that if I have a substantial interest in the profits of the concern, I also have a substantial interest in the losses."

Says Law May Be at Fault.

Mr. Pecora dwelt at length upon the fact that none of the 20 Morgan partners had paid any income taxes since those which accrued for the calendar year 1930. Mr. Keyes explained that 1930 taxes aggregated about $48,000 for all the partners.

"And do not the income tax returns show that the partners paid nothing in 1931?" Mr. Pecora pressed.

"Yes," said Mr. Keyes.

"And isn't the same true of 1932?"

"Yes."

Senator Glass suggested that since the legality of the tax returns had not been challenged by the committee, perhaps the fault was with the law.

In stating his bank's financial position as of December 31, 1932, Mr. Morgan said deposits were $340,000,000, and capital $53,194,000. The assets at that time included $224,000,000 in United States Government securities, $33,700,000 in cash and due from banks, and approximately $7,000,000 in call loans.

Interest at 2 Per Cent.

Questioned as to how the work is distributed among the partners, Mr. Morgan explained that those best informed in a given field usually were called in when that field was under discussion.

Mr. Morgan also explained that the partners don't have to vote on policies.

"We simply talk things over and come to an understanding."

Senator McAdoo pressed for the average interest rate on Morgan loans, concluding that about 2 per cent would be the figure for a normal year.

"Yes, I suppose about that, if you ever had a normal year," the witness agreed.

Senator Glass asked if, in the event that new laws were enacted to prohibit payment of interest on demand balances in Federal Reserve members banks deposits might not gravitate to private banks. Mr. Morgan said he could not know about that.

Not a Circus.

"I don't know either; I'd like you to guess," Senator Glass pressed.

"I can't guess under oath," Mr. Morgan answered jovially.

As the committee was reassembling for the afternoon session Senator Fletcher was complimented by an enthusiastic spectator for having "put on a good show" at the morning session.

"It's very serious, and I don't want to make a circus out of it," the committee chairman responded.

The inquiry will be resumed this morning at 10 o'clock.

When the examination of Mr. Morgan is completed, the file of partners, including Thomas W. Lamont, Russell C. Leffingwell, Thomas Cochran and George Whitney, will be called to the witness stand.

carrying out provisions of the act. For every stock issue sold interstate or through the mails, a registration statement setting forth vital information concerning the issue, must be filed with the commission.

All violators of the act, those making fraudulent registration statements, furnishing a false prospectus of an issue through the mails, or selling or advertising unregistered securities interstate, would be subject to a fine of not more than $5,000 or five years imprisonment or both.

Government Issues Exempted.

The measure, which exempts only certain specified paper, such as Government securities, or stocks issued prior to or 60 days after the enactment, has the effect of tightening local security regulations, long the target of proposed local legislation.

All efforts to correct local abuses, notably through the District blue sky bill drafted by former Senator John J. Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin, following an exhaustive Senate subcommittee investigation, have failed to run the gamut of both Houses.

The securities bill as it finally passed the Senate carries the Johnson amendment setting up a "corporation of foreign security holders" to help investors in defaulted foreign issues to safeguard their interests and recover their money. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation could loan $75,000 for the use of the corporation. The newly created group could not claim to be acting in any capacity for the State Department or the United States Government.

Britain Brings Iceland Into Trade Pact Ring

London, May 23 (A.P.).—Great Britain today brought Iceland within her ring of new trade treaties. The Iceland treaty is the sixth concluded in the past few weeks by Great Britain, the others being with Argentina, Sweden, Norway, Germany and Denmark.

Subject to fulfillment of certain assurances on the part of the British coal industry, Iceland undertakes to take not less than 77 per cent of her coal imports from Great Britain. Iceland will give Great Britain reduced duties on cotton pieces, linen and artificial silk.

(Democrat), North Carolina, however, expected the committee to grant the rule today. This will delay House consideration of the measure until tomorrow.

The industrial control section, which empowers President Roosevelt to establish fair codes of competition in industries, fixing minimum wages and maximum working hours, and the public works section, designed to give work to 4,000,000 men, were described by Doughton as:

"An interrelated program for the relief of unemployment and a substantial increase in mass purchasing power, through the construction of public works combined with measures for stabilizing private industrial operations."

"By establishing maximum hours of work and minimum wages," he said, "we may insure the continued employment of those now employed and furnish work for a substantial percentage of those now idle, and this brings about security of employment for millions of our people at wages sufficient to provide for living in decency and comfort.

"By raising the standard of labor conditions throughout trade and industry, through voluntary cooperation with the aid of the government, unfair competition, based upon the employment of underpaid and overworked labor, should be generally eliminated.

"As a result of such a program, we may confidently expect a further stimulation of industrial operations, greater security of capital, greater security of labor, and a steady increase in the prosperity of the Nation."

The committee said the increase in gasoline taxes from 1 to 1½ cents a gallon was adopted "with reluctance" but that "in the existing emergency there appeared to be no other commodity other than foods which would furnish a sufficiently broad base."

It stressed that the new levies were temporary and would be lifted when the eighteenth amendment was repealed, or the emergency was proclaimed by the President or Congress as ended.

GUARD SURROUNDS MORGAN IN HOTEL

Banker Rents Entire Floor of Carlton for Partners and Secretaries.

(United Press.)

J. P. Morgan last night was surrounded with nearly as many personal safeguards as the President of the United States.

In the center of Washington the head of the world's greatest private banking house prepared for himself a citadel of privacy, as invulnerable from the inquisitive as his famous stone-walled office on Wall street.

Morgan rented the entire fifth floor of the luxurious Carlton Hotel and half of the floor above, a total of more than 50 suites.

The most secluded suit of all Morgan took for himself in the center of the fifth floor. All other rooms on the floor were occupied by his partners, attorneys, and secretaries.

On the floor above, living as luxuriously as the men they serve, were servants and private detectives.

Four of the latter remained on duty near Morgan's suite every moment he was in it.

They kept an eye on the corridors, watched the windows and scrutinized every caller that got off the elevator. No visitor was allowed to stop at the fifth floor without getting special permission from one of the Morgan secretaries who worked in day and night shifts.

The Morgan entourage registered in the hotel almost secretly after information had been broadcast that the members of the firm would stay at another hostelry.

Boettcher Kidnap Trial Postponed in Denver

Denver, May 23 (A.P.).—A postponement until Thursday of the trial of C. W. Pearce, Mrs. Fern Sankey and Mrs. Ruth Kohler, charged with kidnaping in connection with the abduction of Charles Boettcher 2d, wealthy Denver broker, was taken today by R. L. Carr, United States district attorney.

Verne Sankey and Gordon Alcorn, accused by Federal operatives of being the actual kidnapers, have never been captured. They received the major share of the $60,000 ransom paid for Boettcher's release, officials said.

Conference to Study Reorganization Plans

Final details of the plan for the reorganization of the Federal service will be discussed at a conference probably to be held this morning between Secretary of Commerce Roper, author of the plan, and President Roosevelt. The plan was studied by the President last week-end on his trip down the river.

Even if the reorganization scheme is definitely approved today, it is unlikely that the Executive order putting it into effect will be sent to Congress at once, it was learned. There seems to be a fair chance that it will be made public before Monday, however.

HOUSE PASSES BILL TO INSURE DEPOSITS

Bank Reform Plan's Fate in Senate Uncertain Despite Aid of Glass.

(Associated Press.)

A thundering chorus of ayes yesterday put through the House the Glass-Steagall bank reform, designed to safeguard the deposits of money earners and give assurance that Federal Reserve member banking will be strictly separated from speculative operations.

There was not even the formality of a roll call when the reform bill was passed and sent to the Senate, where its companion measure is unfinished business. However, there was a last rising vote—showing only 19 members against the measure and 262 for it.

Broad in its terms, the bill as yet faces an uncertain future. Despite the strong support of Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia, in the Senate, it has not yet been made a part of the Roosevelt program for the emergency session. Advocates of the measure contend, nevertheless, that the administration would not oppose its enactment.

As it passed the House, the bill would establish a quasi-Federal deposit insurance fund that might reach $2,000,000,000. This money would be used to insure depositors in Federal Reserve and State banks that could obtain certificates of solvency from State officials and satisfy the board that administered the fund.

Deposits would be insured on this basis: 100 per cent of amounts up to $10,000, 75 per cent over $50,000. Thus every depositor would be insured safety for at least $10,000.

To satisfy critics who said the bill was designed to force State banks out of business, since they are not automatically made insurance-fund participants as are Federal Reserve members, the House adopted an amendment by Representative Goldsborough (Democrat), Maryland, saying that there should be no "discrimination" against State banks.

Another proviso was inserted to make it clear that the insurance section does not apply to banks already closed.

The bill also requires Federal Reserve member banks to divorce themselves completely from security affiliates; lets the Federal Reserve Board supervise negotiations between Reserve banks and foreigners; relieves national bank stockholders from double liability if their bank closes; forbids an officer of a Reserve member bank to borrow from his bank; prohibits any national, Reserve or member bank or employe from doing insurance business.

MOVE TO BAN BEER PRESENTED P.-T. A.

Resolution Intended to Put Congress on Record Goes to Committee.

Seattle, May 23 (A.P.).—Resolutions intended to put the annual convention of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers on record against legalized beer and in favor of creation of school sentiment against liquor were in the hands of committee members today.

The proposed policies were submitted by Mrs. W. T. Bannerman, of Washington, D. C., chairman of the legislation committee, and Dr. Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of schools at Atlanta, Ga., chairman of the committee on the use of alcohol and narcotics.

Mrs. J. K. Pettengill, of Lansing, Mich., director of the department of public welfare and Mrs. Bannerman's immediate superior, said she believed Mrs. Bannerman had exceeded her authority in "going into the philosophy behind alcoholic and narcotic legislation."

Mrs. Bannerman's resolution read, in part: "We believe that when a program of teaching the scientific facts about alcohol, devoid of educational propaganda, based upon pedagogical principles and graded to the various age levels, is restored to our public school curriculum and given the time allotment it was accorded in preprohibition days, it will not be many years before the sale of beer will not raise such revenue to justify other Federal or local governments legalizing the traffic for this alleged purpose."

The resolution offered by Dr. Sutton said: "The major objectives of the year's work of this committee is to transfer our attention from the matter of enforcement of any one particular law to the underlying and basic principle of educating and training our young people to understand the evil effects that come from alcohol and narcotics and to live lives in keeping with this knowledge."

St. Louis, Des Moines and Washington, D. C., are bidding for the 1934 convention. This year's session will end Friday.

The Federal Diary

By GEORGE D. RILEY.

R. HARRIS & CO., jewelers, are so proud of the handsome trophies in the Federal Diary first annual golf tournament, Indian Spring, Thursday, that they have installed the pieces in a place of honor in their show windows.

If you're entered in the tournament and you sent in your handicap score, you now have the rules and starting time, all set for tomorrow. J. Leland Acuff, Justice, general chairman, says all ties will be played off at Indian Spring Monday, May 29, meaning those tied for various awards, such as the cup (low net score), the low gross score, second low net, third low net, and so on, and consolation.

Saturday the Federal Diary will announce the names of the players tied for various awards and those who do not play off on Monday will forfeit.

The play off will be eighteen holes medal, with original handicaps. If there are still any ties at the end of the second eighteen from there on match play will be invoked until the winners for each prize have been decided.

TODAY we describe holes Nos. 16, 17 and 18.

No. 16, yards 525—par 5. The second par five on the last nine. This hole has been reached in two shots but only the most powerful sluggers do this. A sliced drive will get the player in deep rough or if sliced much will be out of bound. About 300 yards from the tee is a long trap across the fairway. The green is guarded by four yawning traps and the play must be straight and accurate.

No. 17, yards 206—par 3. The finest par three hole in the District. A shot from an elevated tee to an elevated green. The prettiest hole at Indian Spring. You will use any club from a driver to a four iron, depending on the wind. Eight traps on this one.

No. 18, yards 440—par 4. The home hole. A long par four. This one is very deceptive, better to use too much club than not enough club. A pulled second will surely get you in plenty of trouble, deep rough and a large trap. After you have played this hole, then you are ready for your shower and the "rest" that goes with it. Not a very tiring course, just enough variety to make every hole a pleasure to play. Now you have a description of play, here's hoping you have a fine score and a great day.

IT'S hard to preach an idealism, such as the brotherhood of man, to the fellow who has suffered a 40 per cent pay cut.

When the underdog begins to think and act for himself, then the fellow who has him saddled and is riding him yells "Bolshevist!"

If everybody ought to work, then everybody ought to be permitted to work. PHILIP EBERT, G. A. O.

MITCHELL TRIAL HIT BY WHITNEY ABSENCE

New York Hearing Adjourns While Morgan Partner Testifies Here.

New York, May 23 (A.P.).—Because George Whitney, Morgan partner, was in Washington at the Senate hearing on banking practices, trial of Charles E. Mitchell, former chairman of the National City Bank, on a charge of evading more than $850,000 income taxes, adjourned in Federal court today shortly after lunch.

After the stock market crash in 1929, Whitney arranged for a loan of approximately $10,000,000 from the Morgans, through which Mitchell bought a large block of National City Bank stock to keep the price from falling.

After adjournment George E. Medalie, Federal prosecutor, said he hoped Whitney would be available as a witness here tomorrow. The attorney said two of his witnesses, the other of whom he did not name, were out of town, and that he would rather wait for them in order to preserve the continuity of his case.

The chief development in the short session of the trial was testimony by William Murtha, statistician for a financial publication, which indicated that at one time after Mrs. Mitchell purchased from her husband in 1929 18,300 shares of bank stock, she might have taken a profit of nearly $1,000,000. The Government charges the transaction was not actually a sale at all.

Gilda Gray Weds Legation Attache

New York, May 23 (A.P.).—Three weeks after she met him at a night club, Gilda Gray, the dancer, was married today to Hector Briceno De Saa on leave from his work as secretary of the Venezuelan Legation at Havana.

He is the third husband of the woman who made South Sea Island dances popular on Broadway a decade ago. The dancer's divorce from Gil Boag, her second husband, was obtained at Port Washington, Wis., and became effective January 16, 1930, in so far as permission to remarry was concerned.

Work Increase, Despite Raise, Mill Strike Cause

Greenville, S. C., May 23 (A.P.).—Approximately 450 F. W. Poe Manufacturing Co. weaving room employes struck here today. Protesting that although wages had been increased 10 per cent, work had been increased 25 per cent. There was no disorder.

The mill employs about 1,200 workers in all departments, but only the weavers walked out.

2 House Members Fly Home for Repeal Vote

A speedy flight to Buffalo, N. Y., to cast their ballot for repeal in the State's resubmission voting yesterday was part of the day's work for Representatives James M. Mead and Alfred F. Beiter.

The two House members chartered a plane to take them to their home districts, Mead to Buffalo, and Beiter to Williamsville. They left at noon and were to be back at nightfall.

TALKING TO JUROR IS HELD CONTEMPT

Virginian Is Fined $10 for Conversing on Case in Court Recess.

Because of his desire to talk about the case on trail yesterday in the Fairfax County Circuit Court, John Murphy, living near Merrifield, Va., the scene of the alleged crime, was held in contempt of court and fined $10 by Judge Walter T. McCarthy.

Jefferson D. Broaddus and Jorce Jennell were on trial for breaking and entering a building of Isaac Vincent at Merrifield and taking goods valued at $35. The Commonwealth's testimony had been practically completed when the court took a 10-minute recess. During the recess one of the defendants saw Murphy approach one of the jurymen and overheard him telling the man certain facts about the case.

When the court was again in session this was brought to the attention of Judge McCarthy by Attorney Harry Shockey representing the defendants. The juror and Murphy were summoned into the judge's chambers for questioning. Following the investigation, Judge McCarthy dismissed the jury from further consideration of the case. He made it plain to the jury that he did not consider the juror at fault as he had not discussed the case with Murphy or made any statements. The juror had been approached by Murphy who described details of the case and expressed his views.

The trial of Jennell and Broaddus will be heard at a later date when an entire new jury panel can be summoned.

Baltimore, May 23 (A.P.).—The body of a man registered as Earl Martin, of New York, about 40 years old, was found in a local hotel room here today. He had a bullet wound in his temple, and a pistol was lying nearby.

Police said all marks of identification in the man's clothing had been destroyed, but found a ring on his finger with the initials "C. S."

ILL FATHER STRIKES CHILD, 4, WITH AX

Hampton, S. C., May 23 (A.P.).—A 4-year-old child, her life despaired of by physicians, lay dying here today and her father, Henry Bowers, of Hampton, unemployed and ill with pellagra, was in the Hampton County Jail charged with striking her with an ax.

Bowers, aware of his condition, had warned his wife to "hide" all weapons around the house in order that he might not hurt any of the family. Early yesterday morning Mrs. Bowers was awakened by a crash.

Her husband had struck the wall of a bedroom with an ax. The blow was a glancing one and the ax swerved. It struck the head of little Emily Bowers, asleep in the room. Her skull was fractured.

JAPAN AND AMERICA.

Viscount Kikujiro Ishii, spokesman of Japan, will meet the President of the United States today to discuss questions relating to the peace and economic welfare of the world.

The distinguished Japanese visitor comes at a most opportune time. On the day of his arrival in Washington the Japanese army took possession of Peiping, while at Geneva the delegates debated the American proposal to cooperate with other nations in a collective effort to restore peace in case the armed forces of an aggressor should be found on alien soil in violation of treaties.

The Geneva delegates are reported to have expressed curiosity as to whether Ambassador Davis had Japan in mind when he defined an aggressor as one whose armed forces are on alien soil in violation of a treaty. Perhaps Viscount Ishii can throw some light on this question.

The representative of Japan is especially welcome in Washington, where he has seen service and made many friends. His character and ability make him pre-eminently qualified to speak in behalf of the Empire of Japan. What he says will have great weight because of his own personality and his familiarity with Japan's aims and policies.

The spokesman of America is its President. Mr. Roosevelt is personally directing the aims and policies of the United States. The people place full faith in him, and will support him in the vital decisions he must make. Viscount Ishii may be assured that any conclusion reached by President Roosevelt is the will of the American people.

It is idle to minimize the importance of the conversations which affect the relations of the United States and Japan. At a time when the United States is the leader of nations seeking to preserve peace, Japan is pursuing an economic and military policy which estranges it from all nations and compels it to withdraw from the League of Nations. Japan's invasion of China creates a situation which threatens the peace of the world and may make a mockery of the forthcoming economic conference.

The consummation of a disarmament agreement at Geneva, providing for common action against an aggressor, would be worse than useless if the Japanese occupation of China should remain unchallenged. An international economic agreement without the concurrence of Japan would invite world economic and commercial friction.

Japan meets with increasing difficulties in attempting to retain the confidence of other nations while persisting in a policy which is regarded as a violation of peace and Chinese security treaties. President Roosevelt has said that "American foreign policies must uphold the sanctity of international treaties. That is a corner stone on which all relations between nations must rest." The doubts which have arisen as to Japan's willingness to uphold the sanctity of treaties have greatly impaired the prestige of the empire and have induced other nations to proceed with caution in further dealings with Japan. It is not conceivable that President Roosevelt will recede from his own position on the vital necessity of maintaining the sanctity of treaties. Hence the assurance by Viscount Ishii that Japan is willing to co-operate in the economic conference loses some of the the force which it would once have had.

It is well understood, of course, that there will be no negotiations while Viscount Ishii is in Washington. He correctly interprets President Roosevelt's invitation to mean that there should be heart-to-heart conversations in order to arrive at understanding and accord. Americans earnestly hope that these conversations will result in a radical change of policy by Japan, after realizing that nonaggression and faithful observance of treaties are worth more than all that could be gained by pursuing its present policies.

RICH MEN PAY NO TAX.

Revelations that J. P. Morgan, the leading financier of the United States, paid no income taxes in 1931 and 1932 indicate the sharp limitations of this form of taxation as it is applied in the United States. No doubt the case of Mr. Morgan is typical. Wealthy men have been able to escape the payment of taxes because their losses, real or technical, have exceeded their incomes.

Some wealthy men have been left almost without means of livelihood as a result of the depression, and are thus honestly exempt from the payment of income taxes. Others have indulged in financial manipulations to establish technical losses and thus cheat the Government. Indications are that still others have attempted to defraud the Treasury by concealment. The mere fact that a man of wealth pays no tax to the Government in times of acute depression, when the need is greatest, may not indicate fraud, but it does indicate the shortcomings of the income tax law.

Congress has made a practice of not taxing losses. That theory is sound, but when its application enables individuals controlling fabulous sums of money to manipulate their way from under the tax burden, it results in great injustice. The taxes which low-salaried employes must pay have been drastically increased, and they have no possible way of avoiding them. But the financier who holds millions of dollars' worth of securities may sell them to establish losses, and buy them back again within a few weeks at approximately the same figure. In the end he may not suffer loss at all, but in the meantime he can avoid income tax payments.

Congress attempted to correct this situation a year ago. At present losses from the sale of capital assets can not be used to offset earned income. They can be applied only against capital gains. Nevertheless, the losses of many wealthy firms keep them out of the income tax class. The income levy is essentially a prosperity tax. In times of depression it operates to exempt many holders of large fortunes from contributing to the support of the Government. In view of the fact that hundreds of wealthy men who pay the bulk of the income tax in normal years are now contributing nothing or very little to the Treasury, it is not surprising that the yield from this levy has fallen sharply in the last three years.

If this inquiry does nothing more than to throw light upon the ineffectiveness of higher income taxes in times like the present, it will serve a useful purpose. In the face of this demonstration that the great fortunes of the country remain untouched by the income tax at present, the House persists in its effort to secure more revenue from this source for the servicing of a huge bond issue. Congress ought to realize that this course simply discourages the financial interests from renewal of activity, while imposing an unjust burden upon low-salaried citizens who are unable to escape through tax-exempt securities or manipulation of securities.

THE SOVIET'S NEW GESTURE.

Soviet Russia is making a strenuous drive to secure recognition from the American Government. President Roosevelt gave the Moscow regime an opening for this campaign when he included Mikhail Kalinin, president of the Soviet All-Union Central Executive Committee, in the list of those to whom he addressed his plea for disarmament. The Soviet is taking full advantage of the fact that this round robin went to Moscow from Washington. All the propagandists in Russia and the United States are again busy dangling bait before the State Department.

The Soviet's reply to the Roosevelt note was almost a direct request for recognition. After calling attention to the screen of peace talk which the Soviet has thrown up in all parts of the world to camouflage its actual work of inciting revolution, the Soviet note said:

> The Soviet government has concluded non-aggression pacts with most of the countries with which it is in official relations and can, therefore, only welcome your proposal for the conclusion of a pact of non-aggression by all countries.

This may be sweet music to diplomatic ears, but it is well to remember that the author of these words is only a figure-head used to decoy foreign governments. The real purposes of the Soviet dictatorship are not revealed in the honeyed words of diplomacy sent abroad. They must be sought in the speeches and acts of the Soviet dictator himself. There is quite a sharp contrast between the diplomatic note sent to Washington and the instructions given to agents of the Soviet who are appointed to the task of destroying the American Government. These instructions—given personally by Dictator Stalin to the agents of Communism in America, while they were visiting Moscow—are as follows:

> I think, comrades, that the American Communist party is one of those few Communist parties in the world upon which history has conferred a task of a decisive character from the viewpoint of the world revolutionary movement. * * * The crisis of world capitalism is developing at an increased speed and is bound to extend also to American capitalism. * * * It is necessary that the American Communist party should be able to meet this historical moment fully armed, and to take the lead in the coming class battles in America. * * * With this end in view the American Communist party must be improved and bolshevized. * * * With this end in view we must strain our efforts to forge genuinely revolutionary groups and genuinely revolutionary leaders of the proletariat who would be able to lead the many millions of the American labor classes into the revolutionary class battles.

In the lexicons of Soviet Russia, a "non-aggression" pact means an agreement to keep actual fighting forces at home while Soviet agents foment revolution in all parts of the world. Class war—bloody fighting—is the ideal toward which all soviet efforts point. Stalin does not indulge in the delusion that the red army could force Communism upon the world. For the present he is perfectly willing to pay lip-service to international peace while trying to instigate battles between the antagonistic groups within each nation.

A non-aggression pact with a foreign dictatorship that is working to destroy all except Communist governments would, at best, be a diplomatic farce.

SPECTER OF THE DOLE.

Harry L. Hopkins, administrator of the $500,000,000 Federal grant to the States for relief purposes, announces a policy that is sound and practical. Calling attention to the estimate that 16,000,000 people are receiving relief at the present time, Mr. Hopkins said: "I do not think it is my place to perpetuate any system that will keep any such number of people on the rolls. I do not think this was the intention of Congress and I know that it is not that of the President."

Mr. Hopkins has undertaken a very difficult job. His policy is much sounder than the legislation on which it is based. The very fact that Congress made a handout of $500,000,000 to the States will tend to perpetuate the dole system. People are eager to return to a self-sustaining basis when charity comes from local sources. But they are quite willing to accept gifts from Uncle Sam so long as they can be obtained. The connection between Federal handouts and taxation is remote in the mind of the average citizen. It is extremely difficult to convince the beneficiaries of charity from Washington that they are not getting something for nothing.

Expenditures for relief, says Mr. Hopkins, will be well over $1,000,000,000 per year if the present tendency continues. "If this is the situation," he concludes, "unless the States, cities and counties do their part, we are licked at the outset." The greatest difficulty is that Congress has encouraged the States to "lay down on the job." When Uncle Sam assumes the burden of levying taxes and donating money to the States for relief purposes no State can afford to be self-supporting. Local governments are all inclined to resign the responsibility of relieving destitution to Federal authorities to avoid a double burden of taxes upon their own people.

For this reason Mr. Hopkins can not expect full cooperation from the States and cities. The Government has made it profitable for them to avoid drawing upon their own resources. It will be difficult in the future to prevent hunger and exposure without drawing heavily upon the depleted Federal Treasury. Congress has not only weakened the self-reliance of the States but it has usurped their most profitable source of taxation. Mr. Hopkins will be a wizard indeed if he can avoid establishment of the dole system under the system that Congress has set up.

Europe is having such a lovely time talking about peace that astute statesmen are trying to peer around the corner to see whether another war is approaching.

The latest enigma with which bewildered observers are confronted is: Who speaks for the State Department?

ONE DEBTLESS INDUSTRY

From the Kansas City Star.

One great industry that, except in the case of a few companies, is not experiencing the widespread debt troubles of the present time, is the manufacture of motor cars. The wholesale value of the output in 1929 was 3,723 million dollars, exceeding that of any other manufacturing industry. Though it has experienced two unprofitable years, losing more than 50 million dollars in 1932, and making a draft of more than 130 million on its surplus to maintain dividends that were not earned during the last two years, the seven leading companies, not including Ford, at the end of 1932, with 1,420 million dollars of total assets, had less than 4 per cent of their invested capital in the form of bonds, and their total cash and its equivalent amounted to more than six times their total funded debt.

If Ford were included the ratio of debt to total capital would be even less than the above figure.

In a period of rapid development that was never surpassed by any large industry the motor car companies financed their expansion almost entirely out of earnings that were not paid to their stockholders, but were reinvested in the properties, or held in their treasuries largely in the form of United States Government securities. In eight prosperous years, seven companies reinvested 754 million dollars of earnings in their properties.

This policy explains why most of the leading motor car companies are strongly solvent today despite their large shrinkage in business during the last two years. Production of motor cars dropped from 5,621,000 vehicles in 1929, the record year, to 1,431,000 in 1932, a greater decline in output than occurred in any other industry.

Up to 1909, before the production of motor cars reached 100,000 in one year, more than 600 companies had undertaken to get a start in this industry, but one by one they dropped out and today fewer than twenty companies are producing in any volume, and three of these are making about 90 per cent of the current output.

The rapidity of growth of the motor car industry from small beginnings and the wild speculation that occurred in motor car stocks may be judged by the fact that an original investment of $10,000 in the stock of each of four existing companies showed a market value of a million dollars when their stocks were at the highest levels in 1928 and 1929.

THE DRAWBACK.

Well, the sky is getting bluer and the sun is beating down,
And the tulips are in blossom in the gardens of the town.
The fish once more are biting in the lovely rippling streams,
And the grass is green about him where a fellow lies and dreams.
The birds are up at daybreak, stretching silver throats with song,
And the scarcity of money is the only thing that's wrong.

The peonies are budding just as bravely as before.
There's a crimson rambler climbing clear above the kitchen door.
The martin house is crowded with a flock of tenants new,
And they're winging after insects just the way they used to do.
There are violets in blossom, which have slept all winter long,
And the scarcity of money is the only thing that's wrong.

Times will certainly grow better; business soon must start to boom;
But that won't add any beauty to the roses when they bloom.
And the birds won't sing more sweetly, nor will the violets lovelier grow.
Rich or poor, Old Mother Nature will her charms on us bestow,
And it's just too bad that money should so powerful be and strong
That it blinds man's eyes to beauty and makes everything seem wrong.

You Can Tame a Tiger Cub, But It Remains Unreliable.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE continent of Australia, isolated and inaccessible, was unaffected by the forces of evolution. Ages passed while her life stood still. Now her native inhabitants remain as they were when the earth was young, and in her wilds are strange creatures whose like has not been seen on other continents for half a million years.

Japan was an isolated land, also, and in that fact lies the explanation of many things that puzzle our people and statesmen today.

It is necessary that Americans understand the Japanese. Failure to understand them will lead to tragic blunders. And they can not be understood except in the light of their age-long isolation.

There are proud Japanese families that trace their ancestry in unbroken line to the time of Pontius Pilate.

But civilization began in Japan within the memory of our fathers. Until an American naval officer opened Japanese ports to world commerce, the people were virtual savages.

They were a starveling race. Hills that are grass-grown and tree-covered today were built of the bones of famine victims.

The little culture they possessed was borrowed from the Chinese, who quite properly regarded them as barbarians. They had no boats that could cross the sea. They lived in a world apart, and had no share in the evolution of the race.

Now they are "civilized." Within the memory of men now living they have adopted the clothing, the machinery and the arts of the western world. In one lifetime they have, to all appearances, covered the ground that other races achieved by five thousand years of growth and struggle.

But the soul of man does not change so quickly. You can teach a savage to wear dinner clothes, but his mind will not function like the minds of civilized men.

The standards and customs of the white man were a natural development. He made them to fit himself as his growth required them. He did not develop honor in a day. His virtues grew as the race grew, and the capacity for them was bred in his bone.

A child able to make figures can copy a problem in trigonometry, but it must travel a long, hard road to develop the ability to understand the problem.

In business and in statecraft the Japanese feel free to violate a contract. "That was my intention at the time," one will say, "but conditions have changed."

They do not deliberately do wrong. It does not seem wrong to them. Their minds do not work as ours do. They are as true to their standards as the white man to his, but the standards are separated by many centuries.

POLITICAL COMMENT

Those New Federal Taxes.
Minneapolis Journal.

When and if the industrial relief measure becomes a law, the Government will borrow 3.3 billion dollars to finance the varied program of public and semipublic works by which unemployment is to be conquered.

The free spending of this enormous sum is expected not only to put men to work by the million, but to have a revivifying influence that will be felt in every part of the country's economic structure.

A rosy prospect, yet not unlikely of realization. But there is a fly in the ointment. There usually is. This unwelcome insect is the new taxes that must be levied to service the great bond issue. They must yield some 220 millions a year. If that burden had to be borne until amortization of the bond issue was complete, it would afford a dreary outlook for the already much overloaded taxpayer. But if, as the President suggests, the new burden should be taken up by the liquor tax when the eighteenth amendment is repealed, the outlook would not be quite so dreary.

Tight-Rope Walking.
Boston Transcript.

Whatever the impression in this country, Europe is bound to interpret the Roosevelt peace message, delivered at Geneva by Norman H. Davis, as an abandonment by the United States of its traditional policy of "hands off" in respect to world politics. It probably will not go so far as to agree with Hitler's recent declaration that we are now to be the guarantor of peace in Europe, but it can hardly fail to see that the new deal comprehends something not heretofore associated with American foreign policy.

It is a pretty tight rope we are preparing to walk and it will take some delicate balancing to prevent a tumble. If the new Roosevelt doctrine succeeds in keeping the peace in Europe, perhaps no harm will come of it all. But if, in spite of everything, there should be a war, it is difficult to see how the United States could long be kept out of it. By abandoning our neutrality rights we would automatically lay ourselves open to eventual attack either upon our nationals or upon our shipping. In one case or the other, or both, active participation on the battle front could hardly be avoided.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Insists Upon Exclusion of Aliens Smuggled in as Seamen, and Protests Against Relaxation of Immigration Laws.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: You deserve congratulations upon the splendid editorial urging enactment of bills now pending in Congress to prevent the smuggling of alien seamen into this country. It is hard to understand why these bills were not enacted into law long ago. Since every alien now entering the country deprives an American citizen of a job, there is now no excuse for further delay in the matter.

Not only should these bills be enacted into law, but Congress should defeat bills now pending which would relax our immigration laws in certain respects. Relying upon reports that it is necessary to relax these laws in order to let relatives in, or to let in those who are said to be persecuted in certain foreign countries, the enemies of immigration restriction are now busy in Congress fostering bills for these purposes which they hope to get through in the final rush when all the members of Congress are anxious to go home. AUDIENCE APPROVES ARTS CLUB OFFERING

Isham Keith, Helen Shields Give Outstanding Performances of Evening.

Three short one-act plays, fabricated locally in the Art Club's Work Shop, were presented last evening in the club's auditorium before an intimate audience which vouchsafed its hearty approval of the work of Washington's amateur playwrights and actors.

The first of the trio was Anne Darlington's "The Bugle Call," directed by Mrs. William J. Peters. Here is depicted a quasi-historical yarn of one Catherine I of Lutania (in other words, Russia) and her decision at the height of a revolution to return to her people even though escape is within easy reach. As the queen, Eileen Fowler was quite regal, carrying a titled role with quite as much dignity as a real person of that rank. Ida Mattingly as the landlady where the queen finds temporary refuge; John Stuart, as her son, and Minor Ellis, as the queen's would-be benefactor, handled the other roles with skill.

In "The Miltrap House," by Pearl Potter Ets, Isham Keith and Helen Shields did the outstanding work of the evening. The play, revolving around the recalling of vague, practically forgotten episodes of earlier years, is one to test the ability of both director, in this case Maud Nowell Smith, and cast. Miss Smith's task was, however, vastly simplified through the selection of these two budding artists whose histrionic training has been, in part at least, at the hands of Clifford Brooke, director extraordinary of the National Theater Players.

Out of almost nothing, in which ouija plays an important part, Mr. Keith and Miss Shields drew more drama and effective histrionics than was extracted from both the opening drama and the closing comedy of domesticity.

"All Night to Talk," authored and directed by Miriam B. Hilton, is a family drama of the mother-knows-best type, with Anne Ives as the leading light. Mr. Mills and Miss Mattingly reappear here with Ida Clagett and Theodore Tiller 3d completing the cast.

Viewed as a whole the three plays offer a satisfying evening's divertissement, in spite of an occasional verbosity, especially noted in "The Bugle Call," and lack of adequate identification of the characters, in the last play. But, withal, such criticisms are largely captious, for it is out of such efforts as were last evening presented, dratmaturgically as well as histrionically, that future stars of the theater are made. Accordingly, more power to the Work Shop!

TOROVSKY BALLET WARMLY RECEIVED

Lillian Moore, solo danseuse of the Metropolitan Opera Ballet, assisted by William Rodon and Elisabeth Belcher, former members of the same organization, joined forces last evening when they presented the premiere of Adolf Torovsky's ballet, "The Rehearsal," before an enthusiastic audience at Pierce Hall.

The new ballet, especially written by Washington's composer, Torovsky, for the dancers, relates the story of a young ballet master in love with a ballerina. He composed a dance for her and she, to tease him, refuses to dance as he suggests. However, when he is aroused and angry she acquiesces and they dance the number together.

The pantomime of Miss Moore and Mr. Rodon is comprehensive and, with the masterful accompaniment of Mr. Torovsky, a charming and delightfully executed routine.

In the other numbers, which were accompanied by Sylvia Kaplowitz and Doris Kolb Ehlers, the principals were no less praiseworthy. "Terpsichore," an Eighteenth Century idea of the Greek goddess of the dance; and the two back-stage sketches—"Amazon—1880" and "Stage Fright," were among Miss Moore's contributions.

Miss Belcher delighted the audience with her "Claire de Lune," "Valcik," "The Dream of a Naughty Boy," and the "Cymbal Dance" interpreted from Delibes's "Lakme." In "The Gentleman from Harlem," "Parson Brown," and "Evening," Mr. Rodon contributed to the enjoyment of the program.

"Tyrollienne" from Rossini's "Wilhelm Tell," with Miss Moore and Mr. Rodon, and "Ondine" and the Russian Gypsy song, "Black Eyes" were among the other numbers which contributed to an evening of dance long to be remembered.

M'FADDEN ACCUSES TREASURY OFFICIALS

(Associated Press.)

Representative McFadden (Republican), Pennsylvania, took the floor of the House yesterday to impeach Secretary Woodin of the Treasury and 24 other present and former Federal Reserve officers, and after a recitation of his 32 charges of "high crimes and misdemeanors" the impeachment resolution was sent to the Judiciary Committee.

His face drawn and showing signs of nervousness, McFadden, for many years chairman of the Banking Committee, linked his charges with a renewed attack on international banking methods.

The House floor was crowded with members as he talked. The chamber showed signs of impatience to get to the pending business of a final vote on the Glass-Steagall bill.

I suppose that I may claim to be the first Ford Dealer. I not only made cars, but sold them and frequently delivered them myself.

The "drive away" is not new; often I have driven cars from Detroit to towns in Ohio or Indiana or Michigan to make delivery.

There were no good roads in those days, and the people where I drove had never seen a motor car before.

My first really enthusiastic customers were Country Doctors. They were the first to realize the value of dependable transportation to a widely scattered practice.

Even today I occasionally hear from some of those first Ford users.

We had to teach local mechanics how to care for the cars. That is how Ford Service began, which is now found everywhere in the world.

We believed from the beginning that a sale does not complete our transaction with our customer — it creates upon us an obligation to see that our customer's car gives him service. Ford Dealers know their duty to the public in this respect.

I can say of Ford Dealers generally that they have been and are men of character and standing in their communities. Most of them have been with us many years, which indicates that we agree on basic business principles. The Company provides that the methods used to sell the Ford car are consistent with the self-respect of the Dealers who handle it.

The present Ford V-8 is the peak of our 30 years experience.

We have never made a better car. Its eight-cylinder engine is powerful and smooth running. The car is admittedly very good looking and has comfortable riding qualities. It is economical in operation because of advanced engine design and low car weight. It is the fastest, roomiest and most powerful car we have ever built.

FATE OF CRAWFORD RESTS WITH COURT

Decision Delayed on Return of Man Wanted for Ilsley Murder.

Boston, May 23 (A.P.).—The battle of George Crawford, 20-year-old Negro accused of slaying two white women, to escape return for trial in Virginia, a case which has stirred sectional feeling as few cases have done in recent years, rested today with the Federal Court of Appeals here.

At the end of a day given over entirely to consideration of whether the indictment of Crawford in Virginia was invalid on the ground that custom barred Negroes from service on the grand jury there, Judge George Bingham, presiding, announced decision would be reserved.

The case came before the court on the appeal of the State of Massachusetts from a writ of habeas corpus granted to Crawford by Judge James A. Lowell in Federal District Court. Judge Lowell's action, based, he said, on a belief that the Supreme Court of the United States would eventually free the accused man, has aroused strong protest in the South.

Lowell Action Defended.

The Massachusetts jurist, a cousin of A. Lawrence Lowell, retiring president of Harvard University, shortly thereafter was impeached in the National House of Representatives, which named a committee to investigate charges against him.

Today in circuit court, Lowell's conduct was warmly defended by J. Weston Allen, former attorney general of Massachusetts, and by Butler R. Wilson, Negro lawyer.

It was Allen and Wilson who successfully sought the writ of habeas corpus for Crawford in the district court and for nearly three hours they cited cases to prove that Crawford ought not to be handed over to Virginia authorities.

George B. Lourie, assistant attorney general of Massachusetts, appeared for the other side and just as strongly, he demanded that Crawford be sent back for trial.

Questions Before Court.

He asserted the only questions which properly were before Judge Lowell were whether Crawford was the man wanted and whether the papers were in proper form. The time and place to raise the constitutional question of whether the indictment was valid, he insisted, was during the trial itself, and should Crawford be convicted, it would be time enough, he contended, for a writ of error.

He assailed an agreed statement of facts which was submitted to Judge Lowell and which set forth that Negroes were never drawn for grand jury service in Loudoun County, Va., where Crawford was alleged to have slain Mrs. Agnes Boeing Ilsley, wealthy sportswoman, and her companion, Mrs. Nina Buckner, in their hunting lodge in January, 1932.

Allen and Wilson contended, on the other hand, that the Federal courts had a right to inquire into all the facts at any stage in the proceedings.

Famous Neagle Case Cited.

They cited revised Federal statutes in support of a statement that the District Court had power to "proceed in a summary way to determine the facts of the case, by hearing testimony, and the arguments of the parties interested, and if it shall appear that the petitioner is deprived of his or her liberty in contravention of the Constitution or the laws of the United States, he or she shall forthwith be discharged and set at liberty."

Allen followed this up by answering Lourie's contention that the place to raise the issue of invalidity was at the trial, by the words of the Supreme Court in the celebrated Neagle case where Justice Miller, quoting Joseph H. Choate, said:

"If you have the power to interpose after judgment, you have the power to do so before. If you can reverse a judgment, you can anticipate its rendition. Whether you take hold of the case at one stage or another is immaterial."

Priest Retained by Guard

Parishioners Refuse to Let Beloved Augustinian Father Be Transferred to New Charge and Police Withdraw Rather Than See Violence.

Philadelphia, May 23 (A.P.).—For three weeks a guard of parishioners has kept the Rev. Simpliciano Gatt in the Church of Our Lady of Good Counsel.

But parades and protest meetings against the transfer of Father Gatt and his confreres were tiring and shortly before dawn today the two night watchmen fell asleep.

With a suitcase full of his belongings, the assistant rector slipped into the streets of the Italian-American quarter.

After pickets raised a cry, the guards raced up to the priest. There was no force, but unmistakable determination. Father Gatt returned to the church where he has been confined since May 2.

It was another incident in Philadelphia's "save-the-parish" siege.

The three-week demonstration began when three priests, members of the Augustinian Order, were transferred and diocesan priests were assigned to the church. It was the first move in a reorganization resulting from a shift in the Italian-speaking population and in it the parishioners read the death knell of the church they loved.

By the hundreds they stormed the building. They refused to let their Augustinian priests leave for a new charge, and it required a flying wedge of 25 police to escort the rector and two assistants through the crowd.

Father Gatt went back for some clothes and he is still there, further gestures by police have met such sturdy resistance that the officers have withdrawn rather than see violence.

Today Is 89th Anniversary Of World Telegraph Debut

Morse, "Gentlemanly Crank," Gave First Public Demonstration With Message From Capital to Baltimore—"What Hath God Wrought."

Baltimore, May 23 (A.P.).—Tomorrow is the anniversary of the day 89 years ago when Samuel F. B. Morse, a "gentlemanly crank," gave the first public demonstration of a new-fangled contrivance he had invented—the "magnetic telegraph machine."

From the United States Supreme Court in Washington he sent the message, "What hath God wrought," to Baltimore—a message that since has become one of the mileposts in history.

Despite its historic significance, it was not the first message nor was it the message that caused the greatest surprise in the early days of the telegraph.

Two days before the demonstration of the telegraph, the Democratic convention in Baltimore chose James K. Polk as candidate for President and Silas Wright, of New York, as candidate for Vice President.

The news was telegraphed to Washington and taken to Wright in the Senate chamber. He declined the nomination, but when the dispatch was read before the Baltimore convention a short while later, so incredulous were the delegates that they adjourned to await a report of a committee sent to Washington to investigate.

Just prior to the first official message, delegates to the Whig convention which also met in Baltimore were surprised on returning to Washington to find that the news of Henry Clay's nomination for President had preceded them. It was sent as Morse and his associates worked on the invention.

Hunt for John S. Conner, West Point Cadet, Widens

West Point, N. Y., May 23 (A.P.).—The search for John S. Conner, missing West Point cadet, was intensified today when State police announced he had left a note indicating suicidal intentions.

Officials at the United States Military Academy, from which Conner was to have been graduated with honors in a few days, said a note was found but declined to say whether it mentioned suicide.

Conner was last seen at the academy Sunday night. His absence was noted yesterday morning at reveille. West Point officials, directing a search of the reservation's 2,500 acres, said he had no money and asserted there was no train out of West Point Sunday night.

The search was expanded in scope when State police broadcast an alarm over the Tri-State Telegraph System. After describing the missing cadet the alarm said, "He left a note that he was going to commit suicide."

Army information headquarters at the academy said Conner was "probably suffering from strain due to the final written reviews which have been under way for the past three weeks."

Although he stood high in his class Conner wrote his parents in Medford, Oreg., last week that he was worrying over his studies, but did not indicate he was despondent. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Conner, said they promptly dispatched a cheering letter by airmail.

Culbertson on Bridge

By ELY CULBERTSON.

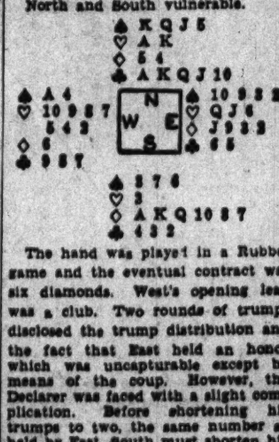
PREPARING FOR A GRAND COUP.

WEBSTER defines the word "coup" as an unexpected device or strategem. Bridge players have borrowed the term to illustrate some of the more brilliant or unusual plays. Thus a simple coup is a play whereby the Declarer shortens his trumps to the same number as that of his right-hand opponent in order that he may not be required to trump in too early, so that an otherwise uncapturable trump honor may be captured. Yielding to the love for spectacular terminology, the simple Coup becomes a Grand Coup when, in the process of trump shortening, winning cards in the Dummy hand are ruffed, or, rather, for that in essence is what it is, when useless and obstructing trumps are discarded on high cards.

The hand below illustrates a variation of this most spectacular play in which the Declarer, before shortening his own trump holding to the same number as that of his right-hand opponent and thus laying the groundwork for the coup situation, had to discard a card in the suit in which he planned later to ruff winning cards to guard against the opponent with the long trumps making a trick by ruffing before he could.

North, Dealer.

North and South vulnerable.



The hand was played in a Rubber game and the eventual contract was six diamonds. West's opening lead was a club. Two rounds of trumps disclosed the trump distribution and the fact that East held an honor which was uncapturable except by means of the coup. However, the Declarer was faced with a slight complication. Before shortening his trumps to two, the same number as held by East, South must shorten his clubs to prevent East from ruffing. Therefore, two rounds of hearts were taken, South, on the second lead, discarding a club. This plan of play, of course, did not guarantee absolute safety, but it was the best the Declarer could do. After discarding one club, the Declarer led that suit from the Dummy, trumping the third round and leading a spade. West won with the Ace and returned a heart, but this simply facilitated South's play of the hand (a spade return here would have defeated the coup). It gave him the opportunity to shorten his trump holding of two one trick earlier than he otherwise would have been able to do.

It is noticeable, of course, that the Grand Coup in this case could not have been effective had East held only three spades, as in that case repeated discards of spades on the high clubs, which the Declarer ruffed, would have left the Dummy short of the essential entry for the success of the coup.

Mercury Makes Chicago Record.

Chicago, May 23 (A.P.).—The mercury climbed 22 degrees today to the 84 mark—the highest temperature for the year and the warmest May 23 since 1925, when the thermometer registered 86. Showers and cooler weather were forecast for tonight or early tomorrow.

The Meanderer

Writes for Men—and for Women Interested in Fashions for Men; Finds Beer Refrigeration Kit.

"Here's to Man! He is like a kerosene lamp; he is not overbright; he is often turned down; he generally smokes and he frequently goes out at night." This ancient toast is inscribed on some imported beer steins for sale in a smart men's wear shop on F street. The steins have the regulation hinged metal tops. Many of them are brightly colored. Their prices begin at $1.

Not often does the Meanderer find men's wear interesting enough to take many notes about. But at the F street shop showing the steins the sensational mess jacket—sometimes called the summer tuxedo—is displayed in the window. Men who wear this new summer evening garb—absolutely correct, the clothier assured the Meanderer—will find sultry Washington evenings far more endurable when so clad. Its price of $13.50 puts it within reach of the average male shopper.

"Men in the tropics have worn mess jackets for years because they are comfortable and readily cleaned," says a current number of Men's Wear. "London tailors with a large colonial following have been outfitting men in India and other places with this sort of jacket for many blue moons. Visitors to Bermuda and other such resorts are impressed with the popularity of this evening jacket. Mess jackets were worn last summer in considerable numbers at many of the leading clubs along the Atlantic seaboard and some clubs at inland points. They were seen at Palm Beach and Miami during the height of the season this past February."

"Why should a man wear the same evening suit on the Fourth of July that he does on New Year's Eve?" demands this magazine. Why, indeed? The Meanderer doesn't intend to take issue. She thinks men would do well to consider this smart new idea for their comfort at social functions. The brief jacket of this new evening suit is of white linen, white drill or white Palm Beach cloth, cut similarly to the Army mess jacket. It is worn with black trousers of summer material—usually black Palm Beach cloth or black linen. A white cotton waistcoat may be worn with the mess jacket, or may be omitted in favor of the cummerbund, a folded, wide belt of black silk.

The Meanderer would like to say what important gentleman of high official circles has purchased two of the mess jacket costumes—but that revelation might not be politic.

Summer suits for day wear have style and interesting materials and low prices, too. Men have followed women in adopting for summer comfort the old-fashioned seersucker weaves. A finely striped gray seersucker is certain to be approved by masculine Washingtonians and their feminine advisers. Linen, of course, is legion—but is not to be the Washington summer uniform, as it has been in other seasons. Poplins, piques and plaids join seersucker in rivaling linen. Most of the materials are washable. Some suits of Palm Beach cloth that resembles herringbone flannel, in gray, brown and tan, are well tailored and should please even the most particular. They cost just $12.50.

The clothier and stylist who interpreted much of the column material today for the Meanderer pointed out that men may use a light coat with dark trousers, or a dark shirt and vest with a light suit, or any such nonmatching garments, for his costume—much as women have preferred contrasts in their apparel to monotones in dress.

Still another sensation in men's wear is the new shirt for summer with a light mesh lining. With this new garment no undershirt is necessary. It is introduced by a famous men's wear house.

Another way for doing without a shirt is arranged for beach and swimming with the short wool or cotton trunks selling as a complete bathing suit for men.

Washable ties in seersucker materials have importance for summer comfort. They sell for 65 cents. Sport ties of cashmere in prints and checks, brightly colored, are finding many buyers.

Sturdy oval shaped baskets with lids, metal-lined, with generous ice compartments, are finding strong masculine favor as week-end beer cases. The Meanderer learned from one who has used such a kit that the compartment intended for ice may be removed, the whole metal lined basket filled with ice, and so provided chilling for a satisfying number of bottles of beer. The porch and garden section of a Connecticut avenue shop is showing these baskets.

Policeman Sees Own Car Stolen

Private T. B. T. Marrow, of the Tenth Precinct, reported for duty at 12 o'clock last night, leaving his automobile parked across Park road from the station. After answering the roll call, Marrow ambled out of the station house to go about his duties. He looked across the street just in time to see his car moving out.

"Hey, wait a minute," he shouted, dashing toward the car. But there was no waiting. The car gathered speed, and away it went.

Angered and vowing he'd do things to the audacious thief, Marrow climbed into a police car and started after his car. At a late hour, the car had not been recovered.

Stocks Continue Advances As Shorts Rush to Cover

Gain of 2.6 Points Staged as Sales Mount to 3,160,550 Shares.

New York, May 23 (A.P.).—Security and commodity markets found it easy to step back into the advance today and prices on most exchanges rallied.

Stocks, supported by early covering, gained more momentum on a later rally, retracing much of the ground they had lost since reaching new average highs for the year on May 11. Rails managed to squeeze through the old top. Grains and cotton lifted with spirit, while bonds were firm. The record of minor staples was generally favorable.

Traders who had sold stocks short on the theory that a technical shakeout was overdue had undoubtedly been frightened by the market's dullness during recent reactions and they appeared eager to cover at the opening, especially when wet issues began to bubble up strongly. Other groups eventually fell into line and trading became much more active than of late. Net gains of 1 to 3 points were numerous; several specialties exceeded that range substantially. Sales totaled 3,160,550 shares.

Appointment of a "general adviser" to the Government on monetary and exchange matters and reports that Washington was making plans toward dollar stabilization suggested to some the imminence of greater activity in the field of currency, and may have served to arouse dozing ideas of inflation. The dollar was moderately heavy against foreign currencies, perhaps on the theory that stabilizing operations would tend to keep it down.

Strength among alcohol and bottling equipment issues coincided with New York State's vote on repeal. Owens-Illinois Glass, National Distillers Products, Anchor Cap, Crown Cap, and Liquid Carbonic led the parade with net gains of more than 2 to nearly 8 points. Allied Chemical clambered to new high ground for a gain of 5¾ on reports that it was about to settle its differences with the stock exchange over disclosure of assets. Several steel equities rose 1 to 3 in anticipation of another boost for the operating ratio.

Rails, generally up 1 to 4, profited by a favorable forecast of last week's loadings. American Telephone came within a point of its recent high, gaining nearly 3 net. Motor shares were strong, led by Chrysler, Nash and General Motors. New York City transactions profited by recurrent talk of higher fares.

American Metal Market in its weekly discussion of steel affairs said production from January 1 to the end of last week was nearly 10 per cent under a year ago, but it believed that "some time during the week after next the total of last year for the same period will be equaled." Demand is still broadening, a substantial expansion being noted in tin plate.

BONDS CLIMB AGAIN TO NEW HIGH LEVELS

New York, May 23 (A.P.).—Bonds accompanied stocks on a forward push today and gains in the more speculative categories ranged from 1 to 4 or more points.

While secondary loans were the favorites, with the rails setting the fastest pace, highest grade investment issues were also steady to firm. Most of the United States Government list, although not particularly active, held advances of 2-32ds to 8-32ds of a point. Moreign obligations were irregular.

Sales totaled $13,342,000, par value, against $12,070,000 yesterday. The average for 60 domestic corporate bonds was up half a point to 73.8, another new 1933 high.

The firmness of Government issues, as well as recoveries in the corporation groups, was attributed partly to continued reports that the Federal Reserve System either had begun, or was preparing to begin its expected open market campaign. There was no official confirmation of these reports.

Wealth of United States Falls $115,000,000,000 in 4 Years

New York, May 23 (A.P.).—The national wealth of the United States fell $115,000,000,000 from 1929 to 1933, according to the appraisal of the National Industrial Conference Board, made public today.

The national wealth in 1933 was $247,000,000,000; in 1929 it was $362,000,000,000. National wealth means the dollar value of the country's physical assets—land, factories and other tangible goods.

The national wealth reached its peak in 1920, at $488,700,000,000, or $4,587 per capita. In 1931 it fell to $280,300,000,000.

Year-to-year fluctuation do not accurately measure the wealth of the Nation in terms of its physical units, but give instead the estimated dollar value of these units according to the prices for which they might theoretically have been sold in the different years.

The conference board estimates, however, that "in the years of prosperity that followed 1922 the tangible wealth is believed to have increased gradually in volume until 1930. The marked decline in national income in 1931 and 1932 makes an increase in those years improbable. The conference board estimates that no appreciable change in the value of physical assets took place in 1931, but that in 1932 there was some impairment of the physical property of the Nation.

"In the 20 years from 1912 to 1932, while the total national wealth increased from $186,300,000,000 to $247,000,000,000, the Nation's population also grew, so that per capita wealth increased only from $1,950 to $1,981, or $31 in the two decades."

CURB PRICES HIGHER ON SPECIALTY LEAD

New York, May 23 (A.P.).—Recent reactionary tendencies on the Curb Exchange were reversed today as renewed buying came into the market to improve virtually all departments. Advances at the close ranged from fractions to more than 2 points.

Quotations were steady to slightly higher at the opening and continued to improve as the session wore on. After a lull around midday prices again pushed upward in the final hour to close near their highs for the day.

Specialties recorded the widest gains, advances of 1 to 2 were shown in a wide range of issues.

Oils were quiet and narrow, excepting Gulf Oil, which advanced 1½. Mining shares firmed.

Utilities were in active demand throughout the day among the leaders. Electric Bond & Share and American Gas & Electric advanced around 2 points. A number of the relatively inactive preferred issues recorded sharp rises. The turnover increased to 403,000 shares, compared to 332,000 yesterday.

TRADE TRENDS.

(Associated Press.)

Industrial alcohol—Talk is still heard that producers may advance prices for third quarterly delivery. Current demand is fair.

Sheets and pillow cases—advances ranging from 2½ to 3 per cent in unbranded makes occurred in primary quarters during the past week.

Cocoa—There has been some decline in warehouse stocks of cocoa beans, which now total about 777,700 bags. Arrivals in May so far amount to 149,900 bags.

Pig iron—Last week's sales in the New York district were estimated at from 3,000 to 4,000 tons, a slight decline from the previous week. Shipments are said to be increasing.

Wool—Demand for tops and raw wool is reported somewhat less active in the Boston market. Some small lots of tops are still being taken by spinners, but generally topmakers report sales and deliveries as being slower than a week ago.

GOODS MARKET.

New York, May 23 (A.P.).—Cotton goods were firm and quiet today. Finished goods continue to move at advanced prices. Wool goods demand is steady in the men's wear division. Women's wear fall lines have not yet opened. Burlap remained strong on the highest price levels for two years. Silks are in moderate demand for fall. Rayon yarns are so closely sold that deliveries of many wanted numbers are difficult to secure.

WHEAT VALUES RISE AS DEMAND REVIVES

Washington Reports Start Buying Drive; Other Grains Advance.

Chicago, May 23 (A.P.).—A sudden upward sweep of 2 to 3 cents a bushel in the value of the leading grains today accompanied renewal of lively speculative demand.

Buying was based chiefly on Washington reports pointing to probable quick governmental action to lift commodity prices under the farm emergency law. The reports indicated that the new farm administration would attempt to apply processing taxes promptly in spite of tariff truce agreements, it being contended that the duties necessary to make the processing taxes effective had been authorized before a truce was established.

Wheat closed strong, 1⅞@2⅛ above yesterday's finish; corn, 1¼@1⅜ up; oats, ⅝@1⅝ advanced, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 37 cents.

Market Is Buoyant.

Buoyancy characterized the wheat market from start to finish, and the last transactions were at virtually the day's top level. Adding to the bullish influence of reports about steps to put processing taxes into effect on wheat and other commodities as soon as possible were Liverpool advices that Russia was buying wheat, and that there would be an estimated decrease of more than 100,000,000 bushels in this season's wheat production of 26 countries, including Russia. Speculative buying was also accelerated on account of assertions from trade leaders that it was certain the Washington administration's efforts would be massed behind any move to advance prices, and that the selling side was hazardous.

Belief widely prevailed that after four successive days of price setbacks in wheat a decided upward swing was to be expected. In some quarters, however, the outlook for a prompt beginning of bonus payments to farmers, the equivalent to processing taxes, was asserted to be obscure. One of the largest grain houses in Chicago issued a statement saying: "Some one in authority in Washington should clearly outline the immediate policy which is to be followed, and at least remove the present fog of uncertainty that can only have an ill effect upon values of farm products."

Corn and oats followed wheat, and were also strengthened by a wet weather forecast.

Provisions rose with grains, despite downturns of hog values.

EXCHANGE PLANNING BETTER SAFEGUARDS

Board Is Trying to Supply More Facts as Aid for Investors.

New York, May 23 (A.P.).—Methods to provide the investor with additional safeguards, by supplying him with more facts, are being studied by officials of the Stock Exchange.

In a questionnaire addressed to companies whose securities are listed on the "big board," the Stock Exchange made some inquiries about audits and accounting practices.

Certain phases of the subject were analyzed collectively in a letter transmitted to Richard Whitney, president of the exchange, by several international certified public accounting firms. Among the firms which signed the letter, it was understood, were Arthur Anderson & Co.; Lybrand, Ross Bros. & Montgomery; Price, Waterhouse & Co.; Haskins & Sells, and Borrow, Wade, Guthrie & Co.

Commenting on an important point of the exchange questionnaire, the accounting firms state;

"We fully recognize the importance of defining the responsibility of auditors and of bringing about a proper understanding on the part of the investing public of the scope and significance of financial audits, to the end that their importance should not be underrated nor their protective value exaggerated in the minds of investors.

"The cost of an audit so extensive as to safeguard against all risks would be prohibitive; and the problem is, therefore, to develop a general scheme of examination of accounts under which reasonably adequate safeguards may be secured at a cost that will be within the limit of a prudent economy."

The essential point in the job of corralling facts for the investor—as the auditors see it—is to "guard against any substantial overstatement of income, and this can be reasonably assured by the auditor satisfying himself of the correctness of the balance sheets at the beginning and end of the period covered by his examination, and reviewing the important transactions during the year."

CANCER DEATH QUIZ TODAY IN ROCKVILLE

Two Montgomery Physicians Are Facing Charges of Manslaughter.

Preliminary hearing for Dr. H. R. Street and Dr. Sherwood Perris, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Mrs. Cora L. Britton while undergoing treatment for cancer, will be held today at 10 a. m. in Montgomery County Police Court at Rockville, Md., before Judge Donald A. DeLashmutt.

The two doctors were held responsible for the death of Mrs. Britton by a coroner's jury in Baltimore, where Mrs. Britton, wife of a prominent May's Landing, N. J., physician, died. Physicians and chemists testified at the inquest that her death was caused by a corrosive salve used in treatment for a cancer on the breast of Mrs. Britton.

A number of persons residing in Montgomery County who claim they have been cured of cancer by the physicians have notified Capt. Joseph G. Cissel, of Rockville, and Leonard Liepman, of Baltimore, attorneys for the doctors, that they are willing to testify for the defense.

Fourteen witnesses have been summoned by the State, of which nine are physicians, and Dr. Roland L. Britton, husband of the dead woman. Dr. Street, who operates the Washington Cancer Sanitarium, and Dr. Perris, who lives at the house in Chevy Chase, Md., where the treatments were given Mrs. Britton, are at liberty on $1,500 bond each.

Women Voters League Celebrates Shoals Bill

A dinner party, celebrating the enactment of legislation providing for Government operation of the properties at Muscle Shoals and honoring members of the National League of Women Voters who assisted in its passage, was given by Miss Belle Sherwin at her home in Georgetown last night. Miss Sherwin was presented, on the occasion of the signing of the Muscle Shoals bill, with one of the pens used by the President.

Mrs. Edward P. Costigan, chairman of the living costs department; Mrs. Harris T. Baldwin, present chairman of the living costs department; Mrs. Laura Williams, in compliment to her sister, Mrs. Ann Dennis Bursch, author of the league's pamphlet, "Electric Power and the Public Welfare;" Miss Gwen Geach, congressional secretary, and Miss Edith Rockwood, program secretary of the National League of Women Voters, participated in the league's support of the bill.

Executor Is Held Liable to Refund

In a memorandum opinion written yesterday, Justice James M. Proctor, in District Supreme Court indicated that he would instruct Thomas Blackwell Smith, an assistant cashier of the Commercial National Bank, to return to the receiver of that institution funds in excess of $30,000 which he drew out in his official capacity as trustee for an estate just prior to the closing of the bank.

The memorandum read: "In my opinion Mr. Smith, as an officer of the bank, in making payments to himself as executor of the Hoffman estate (Gertrude L. Hoffman) of its funds, on deposit in the bank, was in contemplation of insolvency of the bank and with a view of preventing application of assets in the manner prescribed by the banking laws and to preferment of himself as executor, over the creditors. Mr. Smith, as executor, will be instructed to return the currency to the bank receiver."

Shortly before the bank closed, it was shown, Mr. Smith drew a check for a substantial portion of the estate's deposits, and withdrew from the bank some $30,000.

Yeager Reelected By Drama Guild

W. Hayes Yeager was reelected president of the Drama Guild of Washington last night at its meeting at the Willard Hotel. Miss Sibyl Baker and Dr. DeWitt Croissant, of George Washington University, were named on the board of trustees.

In a talk on "The Theater in Europe Today," Dr. Croissant declared that real drama was at its best in England. However, he said, for elaborate staging the Russian theater is not surpassed.

Reports were heard from Mrs. John Otto Johnson, chairman of the membership committee; John A. Hillman, business manager, and Harry B. Hambleton, head of the technical staff.

SENATE VOTES WIDE QUIZ OF MILK PRICES

he said. There was not a dissenting voice and the resolution passed.

Will Be Wide in Scope.

The specific purpose of the King resolution is to determine whether there is in the District any combination in restraint of trade which is stifling competition in the dairy industry. The investigation will be wide in its scope and will include an inquiry into cream, ice cream and other dairy products.

So that a searching inquiry may be made, the subcommittee will be authorized at all times and all places until the final report of its findings are submitted to the Senate. It is empowered to require the attendance of witnesses and may require their production of any documentary evidence which it may deem necessary.

The series of articles in The Post showed that more than 60 per cent of the distribution of milk in Washington is controlled by the National Dairy Products Corporation, a national distributor of milk and dairy products.

ABOUT THE SHOW-SHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL.

AFTER many reasonably capable, but more or less perfunctory performances before the cameras and microphones, a worthwhile opportunity seems finally to have come to a young actress who has never heretofore been suspected of any considerable ability as an exponent of vivid and vibrant emotionalism. It is not without precedent that opportunity should prove the vital factor in establishing a player's place in Hollywood.

Frances Dee.

Upon looking up her record, we find that in 1931 this young woman appeared in no more than five films in which she was cast in roles that were deemed of sufficient importance to be written down in the book. In 1932 the number increased only to six, but among them were such popular features as "The Reckless Age," "The Strange Case of Clara Deane," "Love Is a Racket," "The Night of June 13" and "If I Had a Million." It is doubtful, however, if any who saw these releases could for the life of them at this time recall what parts Frances Dee played in them. This column, for example, saw them all and can not for the life of it remember her in any of them! But then, we have a notoriously poor memory.

Nevertheless, it is doubtful if, after seeing "The Silver Cord," current on the screen at RKO-Keith's, we shall ever again be able to disavow an acute and distinctly pleasant recollection of Miss Dee. As the disillusioned betrothed of the younger of Mrs. Phelps' maternally dominated sons, she performs after the manner of an experienced and richly endowed emotional actress. Her achievement is perhaps the more memorable because it is so utterly unexpected.

After this startling disclosure of a talent that has been latent practically throughout the length of her comparatively brief career, it is not too much to expect that Frances Dee now will take her place among those infrequent ingenues who, when occasion warrants, can step out and take a rightful position beside the Sylvia Sidneys, the Peggy Shannons, the Ann Dvoraks and even the Irene Dunnes.

It is, of course, beside Irene Dunne that she appears in "The Silver Cord," and not in the least to her own disparagement.

Since her departure from Washington, word comes from Katharine Roberts, on behalf of the American Theater Society, that new plays by Eugene O'Neill, Sidney Howard and Maxwell Anderson have definitely been added to the list of Theater Guild productions from which offerings will be drawn for the American Theater Society's new season in the National Capital.

Coincidentally with the announcement that the Wilson Line will operate their handsome steamer, the City of Washington, to Marshall Hall Park—the dolled-up name of the same resort you have known for years as plain Marshall Hall—comes word that a new corporation has negotiated a long-term lease of this beautiful and historic spot.

During the past month, it is said, a group of men hardly second in numbers to President Roosevelt's Reforestation Army, have been at work in Marshall Hall Park replacing old rides with new, erecting many new concessions and stands, trimming old trees and setting out numberless new ones and fashioning a series of lovely flower beds.

Hundreds of new picnic tables in the picnic groves indicate that everything is in readiness for the comfort and convenience of those who crave a day of rest and enjoyment on the shores of the beautiful Potomac. Such an outing is made easy by a schedule that will take the S. S. City of Washington to Marshall Hall Park daily at 9:30 a. m. and 1:30 and 5:15 p. m.

Washington knew her first—I am referring to the Capital City, not the Father of His Country!—as a dancer, who, in partnership with, or rather as a teammate of, Ruth Bennett, supplied Washington entertainment with a quality of terpsichorean artistry that has seldom, if ever, been surpassed locally.

The next manifestation of her versatility was as a pipe organist whose services were in demand in numerous motion-picture theaters, including the Fox, Tivoli and Apollo here, and several of the foremost Boardwalk cinemagogues in Atlantic City. Having been a teacher of piano since the ripe old age of 14, she was frequently heard in piano-pipe organ duets with Milton Davis, erstwhile ace organist of the Crandall-Stanley-Wallace theaters, both as a theatrical attraction and over the air.

Sylvia Kaplowitz.

And now what do you think of Sylvia Kaplowitz, nee Klavans, ups and does? Nothing more nor less than masters the intricacies of the piano accordion, on which she is currently being featured as star of the floor show at the Russian Troika, where on these gay spring evenings she is devoting her fiery Gypsy nature to such spirited songs of the Steppes as "Hi de Troika" and "Otchi Tchornia."

But then, Sylvia always was a Stepper!

Speaking of local artists, there is another dancing star on her way to Washington fame.

At a recent recital at Wardman Park, under the direction of Loretta M. Murphy, little Miss Anita Hennige, 8-year-old danseuse, of 4106 Legation street, a granddaughter of Mr. Karl Egolf, achieved something of a personal triumph by the grace and skill of her interpretation of the Valentine Dance, "Land of the Mandarins," Acrobatic Dance and Tip, Tap, Toe Dance.

Little Miss Hennige is reputed to be a real star in the making. Ten or twelve years from now, don't say I didn't tell you!

Mr. George E. Leavitt, official mouthpiece for Mr. Jimmy Lake, the Beau Brummel of burlesque and the Chesterfield of the best wrestling and boxing circles, (squared), makes it possible to add an unexpected item to these cursory remarks by writing in that the season at the Gayety Theater will come to an end this Saturday night, with the termination of the guest-star engagement of "Peaches" Browning.

Mr. Lake, relying solely upon his own past experience as an active Thespian, a thorough knowledge of Washington's burlesque tastes and an impressive endowment of shrewd showmanship, has accomplished wonders with a minimum of resources at the Gayety this year and deserves credit for having given the fans a swell season of entertainment under the most adverse circumstances yet imposed by the period of the depression.

It is the anticipation of many of the faithful that he will be back at the old stand seasonably early in August to carry on through another season. The lad knows his stuff.

For those who viewed Rose Franken's "Another Language" upon the occasion of its premiere engagement at the Belasco a year ago last April 18—and the number is not large!—and are interested in comparative values, it may be worth while to set down that in the superlatively excellent presentation of the play by the National Theater Players this week, Adelaide Hibbard appears in the role created by Margaret Wycherly, Burke Clarke in Wyrly Birch's part, Karl Nielsen in William Pike's, Kathryn Givney in Mary Hamilton's, Forrest Orr in Hal K. Dawson's, Ona Munson in Irene Cattell's, Romaine Callander in Herbert Duffy's, Bernice Bartl in Maude Allan's, Donald Woods in Glenn Anders', Leona Powers in Dorothy Stickney's and Freddie Sherman in John Beal's.

This is one instance in which comparisons are not odious, for they will be found to be emphatically not to the disadvantage of the National company, who are giving this brief but abundantly enjoyable domestic comedy-drama in every respect a Broadway production and performance.

Rodney Collier, managing director of the Rialto, is doing a first-class imitation of our old friend Pooh-Bah these days, being left to serve in the joint capacities of managerial panjandrum, house manager, publicity man, booker and captain of the floor staff. Reinald Wallach, formerly house manager, was borrowed by the New York home office on short notice to serve in connection with the New York run of "Be Mine Tonight," opening tonight at the Criterion Theater, on Broadway.

There is some slight balm in Gilead, however, because simultaneously with Mr. Wallach's departure, Alex Moss came down from New York to do some first-hand exploitation on "The Seventh Commandment," opening at the Rialto on Saturday.

"The Seventh Commandment" is an admonitory and prophylactic film, partially sponsored by Maj. Louis C. Pedlar, formerly in charge of the art department on this reliable family journal and well-known to many Washingtonians, although not resident here for 20-odd years.

Following its usual annual custom, the Rialto probably will close for the hot summer months, although a definite date for putting up the shutters has not as yet been decided upon. There are two pictures penciled in tentatively to follow "The Seventh Commandment."

Now don't tell me you have had to consult the tablets of Moses to determine which the seventh commandment is!

FARMERS TO DEBATE RAW MILK PRICE CUT

Cost to Consumer Remains Same Despite Dairymen's Reduction.

The new price scale issued by the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Association, which cuts the price paid to the dairy farmer while the price paid by the consumer remains the same, will be discussed tonight by dairymen at a meeting in Adamstown, Md.

Under the new price scale the distributor will pay the farmer 26 cents a gallon for milk having a butterfat content of 4 per cent. The farmer formerly received 27 cents for this quantity of the same milk.

As a result of the new price scale the distributor will receive an additional profit of one cent a gallon on the fluid milk he sells to his customers. There has been no change in the price of milk to the consumer.

The new price scale means that the distributors will net an additional profit each day of $452.73, because there are approximately 45,273 gallons of milk sold daily in the District. The Frederick County dairymen, who ship daily between 12,000 and 13,000 gallons of milk to Washington, regard the new scale price as an effort to curtail the production of milk.

The new scale price provides another class of milk known as third class. This is the milk that is used for manufacturing products. For this milk the farmer will receive from 8 to 10 cents a gallon. For the class 2 milk the farmer will receive 18 cents a gallon. He formerly received 14 cents for this grade.

Mrs. Owen Welcomed As Envoy to Denmark

Copenhagen, Denmark, May 23 (A.P.).—America's first woman minister, Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, received cordial greetings as she landed today from the liner Scanstates to assume her post.

On behalf of the Danish government, Count Carl Foltke, former Danish Minister to Washington, boarded the steamer and welcomed her to Denmark. A large crowd gathered at the quayside and Mrs. Owen, who is popular in Denmark because of former visits here, was warmly cheered as she drove away with members of her party.

Committee Probes Helvering Conduct

(Associated Press.)

The manner in which Guy T. Helvering handled appointments for postmasters when he was a member of Congress was pried into yesterday by a Senate committee considering whether to approve his selection as Internal Revenue Commissioner.

An even dozen witnesses went before the Senate Finance Committee to testify behind locked doors regarding the complaints that have come out of the Kansan's handling of patronage and of tax cases in which he was attorney. Action was reserved until tomorrow, when additional witnesses will be heard.

Several of the witnesses testified against the nominee and others were said by committee members to have refuted their testimony.

$150 Talk

Glib Man Asks for Change at Bank and Escapes With Surplus.

About noon yesterday, a man apparently with an excess of "big money" stepped up to the window of James Heelen, paying teller at the National Capital Bank, 816 Pennsylvania avenue southeast, and asked for some change.

He shoved two $100 bills and four $50 bills through the window, asking for $10 bills, in the meanwhile talking glibly about this and that to the teller. After the $10 bills had been counted out by the teller, the man is alleged to have apparently changed his mind about taking all the money in $10 bills. He shoved a batch of them back and asked for $5 bills. The change made to his satisfaction, the man took his departure without ado.

When Heelen checked up his cash at closing time, he discovered he was short 15 $10 bills.

COALE SUSPENSION FACES COURT TODAY

Appeal of Former Decision on Authority of Regents Before Tribunal.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., May 23.—Whether the regents of the University of Maryland have unquestionable authority to suspend a student who refuses to take the required course in military training was put to the Maryland Court of Appeals today for final decision.

The action came to the State's highest tribunal through an appeal brought by the regents in the case of Ennis H. Coale, of Harford County, who college authorities were forced to reinstate under an order passed by Judge Joseph N. Ulman in the Superior Court of Baltimore City. Coale was a conscientious objector to the military course on religious grounds.

Elaborate arguments were heard by the Appellate Court. The university was represented by Deputy Attorney General Willis R. Jones and Assistant Attorney General O. C. A. Anderson, John H. Skeen and Reuben Oppenheimer represented Coale.

The expulsion and subsequent reinstatement of Coale has been the subject of contention for several months. Dr. Raymond A. Pearson, president of the university, has maintained that had not the action been taken in Coale's case it would have tended to move other students to take matters into their own hands. It was on this point that the weight of arguments of attorneys for the school descended.

Attorney Skeen, however, contended that the only question before the court was the constitutional problem. He said: "Assuming the action of the university was authorized by statute, which is denied, then the suspension of Coale violated the Maryland declaration of rights, the Maryland constitution and the fourteenth amendment to the Federal Constitution as an infringement of the rights of religious liberty or due process of law."

DRINKING MINISTERS CITED AT DRY PARLEY

Doctor Defies Hisses to Say Methodist Clergymen Thrive on Liquor.

Los Angeles, May 23 (A.P.).—A meeting of dry leaders, including Methodist ministers and members of the W. C. T. U., was thrown into an uproar today as the youthful Dr. Kenneth W. Taber, former chief police surgeon of Pasadena, calmly told his listeners he had administered whisky to retired Methodist ministers and that they had "thrived on it and lived longer."

In spite of hisses and shouts of protest, Dr. Taber held his ground and demanded he be allowed to finish his talk.

"He needs to go back to school to learn more medicine," shouted a woman in the audience.

An aged man stood and, pounding with his cane, shouted:

"I'm 84 years old and I've never taken a drop in all my life."

"You're an exception to the rule," Dr. Taber replied.

"Doctor, doctor—" shouted a man in the rear of the meeting hall, demanding recognition.

"See here," cut in Dr. Taber, "I'm here unwillingly, to tell the facts. I'm here as a guest. I don't propose to stand up here and be fired away at as a target."

The questions continued, however.

"Isn't it true, doctor," asked a W. C. T. U. member, "that liquor is a poison?"

"So is food when taken immoderately," Dr. Taber answered. "Most people dig their graves with their knives and forks."

"Isn't is true," asked another person, "that they have abandoned the use of whisky at the Philadelphia Memorial Hospital?"

"That's too far away from here," I know they haven't abandoned whisky at the Methodist Hospital in Los Angeles."

Finishing his talk, Dr. Taber said young people should be given all the facts of life if they are to arrive at the truth of any subject.

Mount Redoubt Active After Earth Tremors

Anchorage, Alaska, May 23 (A.P.).—Mount Redoubt, 10,000-foot volcano dormant for years, was reported by Capt. Heinie Berger, of the motorship Discoverer, to be throwing smoke today. The mountain is about 50 miles southwest of here, in a region recently shaken by heavy earthquakes.

Another earth shock was felt in Anchorage last night, lasting for about fifteen seconds. No damage was reported.

MARBERRY LIMITS NATS TO 3 HITS IN 7-1 TRIUMPH

This Morning with Shirley L. Povich

FRED MARBERRY'S three-hit game yesterday was no surprise to Fred Marberry.

The big pitcher was visiting his old clubmates in the Nats' locker room before the opening game of the series Monday afternoon. He wasn't talking about himself until somebody asked him how he was doing this season.

"Wa-al, so help me, I'm not bragging," Fred drawled, "but I'm pitching great ball this season. No kiddin', I never felt better. Only lost two games and shouldn't have lost one of 'em. I'm going great, no foolin'."

And he wasn't fooling. The three-hit game he pitched yesterday was no fluke. The way he flung his left foot in the faces of the Washington hitters and came down in there with his speed-ball smoking was vividly reminiscent of his sensational work in 1928, when he figured in 61 games for the Nats.

Marberry has won six and lost two this season with a sixth-place club. He may have outlived his usefulness with Washington, but he is in excellent health in a Detroit uniform.

Stadium Air Full Of Fight.

The Nats and Tigers ordinarily get along peacefully, but the air was surcharged with fight in the later innings yesterday.

The first overt act developed in the eighth inning when Heinie Manush, for reasons of his own, kicked Hank Greenberg's first baseman's mitt out into right field from its accustomed spot near the coach's box. The big Detroit first baseman took due note of it and addressed some remarks to Heinie that I doubt were complimentary.

All that was required thereafter to touch off the smoldering ill-feeling was the fast, straight one that Marberry cut loose at Manush in the ninth. It wasn't a curve and it crossed the batters' box where Heinie's head had been a split second before. Manush threatened to take the matter up personally with Marberry and the latter was meeting him half way when Umpire Dineen interceded.

The boys are living up to League President Harridge's plea for more spirit in the national pastime.

Gehringer's Talent Hid With Tigers.

The rose that is born to bloom unseen and waste its fragrance on the desert air reminds this department that the Detroit Club, for the past eight years, h boasted the finest second baseman of his time. It is Charley Gehringer's misfortune that his talent has been wasted on the perennial second-division Tigers.

Every other club in the American League would welcome Gehringer. He is acknowledged by ball players as the king pin of second basemen, exceeding all in hitting ability and exceeded by none in fielding. He has been the backbone of the Detroit infield since 1926, the steadiest infielder on the club during his time and the hardest hitter year in and year out. He's the ball-player's ball player.

Gehringer is hitting below the .300 mark thus far this season, but he's a .300 hitter and has been since the year after he joined the Tigers in 1926. He's got a lifetime average of .315 in the big show and a college education.

RUNS, HITS AND ERRORS.

For the first time this season at Griffith Stadium, the umpire issued a bean ball warning to a pitcher after Marberry sent Manush to the ground in the ninth inning yesterday. . . . League President Harridge's reminder that umpires are to give pitchers only one warning against the bean ball is prominently posted in the players' dressing rooms throughout the league. . . . two years ago Bucky Harris said that his third baseman, Marvin Owen, was the most promising player to come up to the big leagues. . . . Dave Harris' hits yesterday, if laid end to end, wouldn't reach to second base. . . . He grounded to Myer in front of the second sack, struck out, and popped to Hayworth over the plate.

Upsets Mark Play at East Potomac

L. Downey, Saunders Beaten by Lewis and Marks.

Connelly and Rippy Survive in Championship Flight.

TWO upsets featured the opening round of match play in the East Potomac spring golf tournament yesterday when Larry Downey, who missed by one shot of tying with three others for medal honors, and Harry Saunders, who shot a 74 to qualify in the recent Manor invitation, were eliminated.

Downey went down to defeat at the hands of Robert Lewis, southpaw shooter, 3 and 2, while Saunders lost to Robert Marks, 1 up.

Claude Rippy, the medalist, got off to a galloping start by conquering R. B. Irwin, 3 and 2, after leading 3 up at the turn. The Shelby, N. C., flash, whose 77 won him qualifying honors, clicked off a 74 during his cruise about the course yesterday, hitting his shots much better than he did in the medal round.

Bowers Winner Over Seay.

Stocky Harold Bowers put out William Seay, winning 1 up in a loosely played match. Bowers led from the fifth hole, going as high as 3 up.

John Connelly, winner of the recent Rock Creek championship, swamped Herman Hurdles by 5 and 4, while John Downey, who is listed among the favorites, had a battle on his hands before blasting Ross Smith's hopes, 1 up. Ralph Bennie, athlete de luxe, also had a fight on his hands in beating Paul Heston, 1 up.

Quite a number of hotly contested matches resulted in the other flights. C. H. Picco beat H. C. Bannerman on the nineteenth in the second flight. In the third division Earle Charles Wesley Jameson, jr., left-hander, triumphed on the twentieth hole after being dormie 4. Clyde J. McCauley bowed to O. Holland on the nineteenth hole in the fourth flight.

Two matches are on tap today. In the morning Claude Rippy meets the youthful John Connelly. John Downey will clash with Bob Marks.

Results:

FIRST FLIGHT.

Claude Rippy beat R. B. Irwin, 3 and 2; John Connelly beat Herman Hurdles, 5 and 4; Duncan Brooks beat A. M. Holmes, 5 and 4; Robert Lewis beat Larry Downey, 3 and 2; Harold Bowers beat William Seay, 1 up; Ralph Bennie beat Paul Heston, 1 up; John Downey beat Ross Smith, 1 up; Robert Marks beat Harry Saunders, 1 up.

SECOND FLIGHT.

C. H. Picco beat H. C. Bannerman, 1 up, 19 holes; Frank Bevers won by default from Walter Barrett; Pat Axtel beat J. O. McAlwee, 4 and 2; D. J. Kosak beat

THIRD IN ROW CREDITED GROVE

Foxx's 7th Homer Is Help as Browns Bow, 8 to 6.

PHILADELPHIA, May 23 (A.P.).—Featured by Lefty Grove's appearance in his third consecutive game and Jimmy Foxx's seventh home run, the Philadelphia Athletics won their fifth straight game today, hammering two St. Louis Browns' pitchers for 12 hits and an 8-to-6 victory.

Grove, twirling two-hit ball for his three-inning stay on the mound after Hank McDonald left at the end of the sixth, was credited with his third straight victory.

Each came while the lanky portsider was in a relief role, Saturday against the Cleveland Indians and yesterday and today against the Browns.

The game see-sawed back and forth as the big bats of first one team, then the other, swung into action.

Johnson and Foxx hammered out home runs, each with a man on the bags in the fourth.

In the tenth, Frankhouse, Knothe and Mowry singled. Then Moore also singled, scoring Frankhouse and Knothe.

WEAVER AND BRIDGES BATTLE

Nats Hope for Edge in Series; Goslin May Play.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

THE Detroit Tigers end their series here this afternoon and it is up to the Nats to take this game if they want to have as good as an even break on their home stand to date. Tommy Bridges, who was robbed of a no-hit, no-run game by Dave Harris in the ninth in a game against the Nats last year, will do the flinging for the visitors, while "Prof." Monte Weaver will get the call for the home gang. Monte showed a return to his best form against the White Sox last week and should give the Detroiters a battle today.

While Third-baseman Owie Bluege's leg, reinjured in Monday's game, is little worse than normal, Manager Joe Cronin decided to give him a complete rest yesterday and he was told not even to put on a uniform.

Goose Goslin, also a casualty, could have played yesterday if absolutely necessary, but was told to watch the game from the bench. He likely will be back in the home line-up today.

First Baseman Bruce Connatser has not been returned to the Nats by Chattanooga, as first reported. He has been suspended by the Lookouts who have been advised to get rid of him if they do not want him, for the Nats' player-limit already has been reached, so there is no room here for any more talent.

The Tigers molded one run on no hits in the second and then it took a clean single and two doubles, all in succession, to coin their first marker in the next round.

Walker went into the angle near the stands in right for Kuhel's looper ending the fourth. It was the second time in the last three games catches of this kind have been made, as Swanson retired Kuhel in this manner in last Sunday's game. Only about four catches of this type are made here each season.

Rogell made a hit-robbing stop of Rice's hot bounder over toward second opening the native sixth.

Manush's only chance of the game came in the seventh, when he tore over toward the left-field line to make a pretty gloved-hand grab of Fox's liner.

Bolton batted for Russell in the eighth and it took a great stop by Rogell to keep him from breaking into the hit column.

Manley Loses Decision to Raymond

Overlin Beats Irving; Strickler Winner Over Kirkwood.

By DAVE HERMAN.

ROY MANLEY ran up against a clever infighter and stiff puncher in Lew Raymond last night at Portner's Arena and took a beating in the 8-round headline bout of the program.

The curly-haired Baltimore junior welterweight was awarded the decision unanimously. It was a bruising battle in spots and was featured by Raymond's rapid-fire two-fisted attack in five of the rounds.

Manley, fresh from a sensational 56-second knockout over Ray Bowen, won the first round. Then Raymond brought his heavy punches into play and for the next five rounds shelled the rugged Arkansas southpaw around with terrific body and jaw smashes.

Manley, however, surprised even his backers by rallying gamely in the seventh and eighth, winning both heats. Manley resorted to open glove punching, and socked Raymond on the face with resounding smacks in the last two rounds.

Manley Takes Punching.

Manley ran into a volley of punches in the third that didn't improve his looks. In the fifth Raymond punched at such a furious pace that Manley was hanging on. In the sixth blood began flowing from Manley's right ear and mouth.

In the eight-round semiwindup—the best fight of the night—Ken Overlin, Norfolk middleweight, clubbed his way to a unanimous decision over Henry Irving, the Northeast Popeye. A stiff right to the jaw, knocked Irving down for a count of nine in the second, but he arose gallantly to finish the round fighting.

Overlin won practically every round with the exception of the fifth, when Popeye displayed some of his old fire. The Norfolk Sailor threw so many punches in the first four rounds that Irving found himself merely a punching bag. Irving took a nosedive in the seventh after missing a swing, while in the eighth Overlin plowed his two fists into Irving's right eye, opening up an old wound.

Kirkwood Subs In Bout.

Two fighters scheduled to appear on the program failed to show up. Walter Kirkwood took an eight-round bout with Billy Strickler on 15 minutes' notice, and put up a whale of a good scrap before losing the decision. It was unanimous. The bout was a rip-snorter from bell to bell, with Strickler the best conditioned and the most aggressive. Kirkwood went to bat for Red Journee, of Norfolk.

Harry Kersey, the lanky kid from Jacksonville, Fla., substituted at the last minute for Heap-Much Chief Perry Knowles (the Injun said he weighed only 126 and his opponent 140), and knocked out Billy Essinger after two minutes of fighting in the second round. Kersey, who has fine ring form, and shoots a short, stinging punch, put Essinger away with a right to the jaw. Essinger's head hit the canvas with a mighty thump, and Referee Short quickly halted hostilities. They were to step six rounds.

Luque Checks Reds As Giants Win, 6-4

Cincinnati, May 23 (A.P.).—Some good relief pitching by Adolfo Luque after Roy Parmelee, New York's starting hurler, had hit a home run with two on base gave the Giants their second straight victory over the Reds today, 6 to 4.

Yankees Deal Hildebrand 1st Loss

Ruth, Combs, Gehrig, Chapman Hit Homers in 8-6 Victory.

Brennan Stops Rally of Tribe as Allen Goes Wild.

NEW YORK, May 23 (A.P.).—A blast of Yankee home runs gave New York its second straight victory over the Cleveland Indians today, 8 to 6, and handed Oral Hildebrand his first setback after six successive pitching triumphs.

Every one of the Yankees' runs resulted from a circuit drive. Babe Ruth hit his sixth of the year with empty bases in the first inning.

Then Earl Combs clouted one with two aboard in the third and after Hildebrand had passed two men Lou Gehrig duplicated the feat for his eighth homer. Ben Chapman got the last four-bagger off Willis Hudlin in the eighth.

Johnny Allen was wild and was replaced by Don Brennan after walking the first three men in the ninth.

Red Sox Blanked, 7-0, by White Sox

Boston, May 23 (A.P.).—With the Boston Red Sox hitting into double plays almost every time they had a runner on base, Milt Gaston had little or no trouble hurling the Chicago White Sox to a 7-0 victory today to even the series.

Al Simmons, slugging Chicago outfielder, had a great day at bat, getting a homer, triple and a single. He has now hit safely in 15 straight games.

Gaston held his former teammates to six hits, three of which came in the opening inning. After that session no Red Sox player reached third base, for the Chicago infield put over five double plays.

Subdues Nats

Umpire Intercedes in Manush-Marberry Row at End.

Nats Held Hitless in 7 Innings; Stewart Pounded Off Hill.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

FRED MARBERRY, whose name used to be synonymous with Washington victories, appeared at Griffith Stadium yesterday with a huge "Detroit" emblazoned across his massive chest in signboard scripture, a speed-ball of 1925 vintage as his chief stock in trade and a lot of venom in his curve. All of this is leading up to the fact that he permitted his old clubmates three hits and a 7-to-1 beating.

And before he was through impressing upon the Nats exactly how fortunate indeed they had been during the eleven years they were not called upon to face his offerings, Marberry had stirred up a fine old feud with Heinie Manush that sputtered in the ninth inning and died in the locker room.

Twice during the game the umpires had called for an inspection of the ball Marberry was pitching. Held to three hits, the Nats were naturally suspicious and Marberry's old habit of wiping the perspiration from his forehead with his pitching hand aroused further distrust. Marberry was getting a spit-ball effect on his pitches, was the charge, which the umpires failed to substantiate.

FRED MARBERRY.

Tess Close to Manush's Head.

But in the ninth, with the Nats six runs behind and two out, Marberry threw one perilously close to the head of Heinie Manush. Manush glowered at Marberry. Marberry glowered at Manush. The big pitcher strode half way to the batter's box and Manush stepped toward the mound. Umpire Dineen intercepted Marberry, waved him back to the mound, and Manush ended the game with a grounder to Gehringer.

Back in the locker room a minute later all was forgiven.

Marberry held the Nats hitless in seven of the nine innings. More than three men faced him only in the fourth, when the Nats put together two of their three hits for their only run. Outside of that session, no batter reached second base and only one progressed as far as first.

The big fellow who wore a beaten path from the bullpen to the pitcher's box as the Nats' king of relief pitchers, and who couldn't win consistently in a starting role, needed no relief yesterday, finishing

INDIAN RUNNER, FAVORITE, TAKES BOWIE FEATURE RACE

Choice Beats Ladfield by 3 Lengths

350-1 Shot Is Third; Cruz, Tipton, Erickson Suspended.

Kanal Beats Juveniles; Lough Port and Bubola Score.

By WALTER HAIGHT.

FAVORITE players were busy tearing up tickets for three races yesterday, but along came the feature and along came Indian Runner. The gelded son of Dis Donc played up and down the coast, hovered around even money for some 20 minutes preceding the race and then ran like a 1-to-10 shot to win by three lengths and pay a $4.40 mutuel. Chief among the chasers was one Ladfield, with West Main, a 350-1 shot, thank you, third, a head farther back.

It was quite a horse race to the stretch. First Monel went to the top. Then Hope to Do did the principal running, followed by West Main and Indian Runner. Turning into the stretch the order changed. Indian Runner had worked up considerable steam and began unloading. Tipton soon had the favorite on top and for all purposes the race was over. Tipton went through the formality of riding to the finish line, while Ladfield came up to nose out West Main for the place.

It was still summer at the nearby track. Linen suits made their appearance in great numbers and most of the blue serge coats were discarded over in the grandstand.

Kanal Good Thing In Opener.

Mrs. H. S. Horkheimer's Kanal, which opened at 50-1 and closed at 8-1, scored a length decision in the opening race, a sprint of 5 furlongs for juveniles. Liberty Oak was second and Canana, a long shot grouped in the field, was third. Liberty Oak broke in front, but Munden soon had Kanal running after the Labrot youngster. Kanal collared the pace-setter rounding the far turn and forged to the front, never to be headed. Liberty Oak coasted into second place ahead of Canana, which had held third position most of the way. Kanal finally paid an $11.80 mutuel.

Lough Port came back with another fine race in the second and galloped to the finish line four lengths in advance of Pretty wise and Shavings, a pair of long ones. Lough Port raced Cordoba into the ground and thereafter romped home. The prerace chatter brought a number of wild tips, with the result that Lough Port paid a $13.40 mutuel.

Mack Sennett made a show of his field in the third race and they were hanging up his number before the others in the field passed the judges. The charts record the margin as one of 7 lengths. Second came the favorite, Rock Point, with Oral, third. At that, there were some anxious moments after the race while officials weighed a possible foul. Grace R was squeezed back at the far turn, but the official sign was soon displayed and win tickets on Rock Point went to the trash heap. Mack Sennett paid an even $7. Harold Crus, who had the mount on Oral was set down for three days for rough riding in the race.

Modern Times Is Disqualified.

The fifth race resulted in the disqualification of Modern Times and a five-day suspension for A. Tipton, the rider. That pair was charged with fouling Gold Prize at the stretch turn. However, the verdict did not change the winning result as Ward in Chancery scored. Gold Prize was moved to second and Garlic to third. Gold Prize, the favorite, was well up when met by interference. Ward in Chancery paid $14.40.

Just before the sixth race it was announced that Jockey Erickson had been given five days on the ground for rough riding, bringing the day's suspension to three.

Damascene proved a winning favorite in the race, staying behind the fast pace set by Revonah and then stepping up in the stretch to take the decision. Fairly Wild was third.

DEAR AL: BOWIE RACE TRACK.

The Rowe Memorial Handicap, $3,500 added feature for Saturday, has been called off due to a lack of suitable entries. Bowie officials had expected Mr. Khayyam, winner over Head Play in the Wood Memorial, to be on hand for the race but the colt suffered a slight injury that will keep him in New York. However, a good program is being arranged for the day. My two winners yesterday were favorites but we were well represented in the money throughout the card. All you need today is the urge, plus the cash and the horses that follow.

BILL.

FIRST RACE—THE BALIFF took a decision over at Pimlico and seems best suited in this sprint. Is supported by two other Labrot juveniles, CAMPAGNA and IN CLOVER. INDIANOLE is reported to have worked well and has had conditioners.

SECOND RACE—PRINCE ABBOTT ran with Night Patrol up State and should graduate from the maiden ranks in this. ETERNAL MAID has been trying for a long time and has some smooth races as recommendations. TOO LATE has a chance to take it all on some form.

THIRD RACE—TOYTIME and LODORUS figure close together and I favor them in the order named. Both are sharp as tacks. IF IDA gives weight to the top pair but is also on edge. This should be a close one.

FOURTH RACE—PORTERS DREAM likes this track and may lead SILVERDALE, the one to beat, across the finish line. PORTERS DREAM has had a slight let up from the grueling races at Pimlico and is reported fit. BALLY BAY goes back to a sprint and may show to better advantage.

FIFTH RACE—They'll have TRAFFIC JUDGE to catch in this of course. OPEN HEARTH has races that make him the favorite, but if we are to believe those late performances this one is not himself. NED O has been closing fast lately and is dangerous.

SIXTH RACE—GRAMARYE has raced well this spring, and is the logical selection here. EVERFAIR has some races that would put her right on the top one's heels. FLUFFY LEE, now out in the open, to take the show.

SEVENTH RACE — PROMETHEUS sprinted well at Pimlico and tries this route today. Should like this rather soft track. BRIGHT BIRD will be in front for most of the distance. Wants no more than a mile and a sixteenth. SPANISH looked like a cooler the last out. Might take it all.

Bowie Track Lists Ladies' Day Friday

Friday will be Ladies' Day at Bowie, General Manager Joseph Boyle announced yesterday. Women turf fans will be admitted to the track upon the payment of a 15-cent tax. It was learned that if sufficient interest is shown in the innovation, Laurel will have a similar day next fall. The announcement over the loud speakers yesterday was given a rousing cheer.

KANAL, avoiding interference and having good speed, won. LIBERTY OAK down when leaving the back stretch, showed good speed and held on stoutly. LIBERTY OAK, away forwardly and a keen factor after being displaced, finished with good courage. CANANA, racing forwardly all the way, just lasted to stall off SOURCE CIRCLE, after closed samely under punishment. Two-dollar mutuels paid—LOUGH PORT, $13.40, $6.40, $5.00; PRETTY WISE, $20.20, $11.80; SHAVINGS, $7.80.

LOUGH PORT, beginning quickly and having good speed, raced CORDOBA into submission, took clear lead when midway of the turn and then held his field safe. PRETTY WISE improved his position on the outside and finished gamely. SHAVINGS, stoutly handled all the way, faltered after being straightened into the home stretch. LONE HAND, slow to get going, colsed a good sap. HIDORA went evenly throughout. CORDOBA stopped fast in the last three furlongs. BOY CRAZY and FLAG VIEW broke slowly and then lacked speed.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:41. Off at 3:43½. Winner, Mrs. J. H. Whitney's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MACK SENNETT, $7.00, $2.80, $2.40; ROCK POINT, $2.60, $2.20; ORAL, $3.40.

MACK SENNETT, rated close to the leaders while having much speed, disposed of ORAL when ready and drew out into a commanding lead without effort. ROCK POINT, outrun in the first three furlongs, aligned into the inside during the stretch run, closed willingly, but could not menace the winner. ORAL had smart speed in the first three furlongs, but weakened steadily after losing command. MOON SHY, a slow beginner, was unable to threaten at any stage. EN PASSANT was always outrun. GRACE R. was squeezed back by MACK SENNETT when leaving the back stretch.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—INDIAN RUNNER, $4.40, $3.00, $2.60; LADFIELD, $3.60, $3.20; WEST MAIN, $21.00.

INDIAN RUNNER, closer to the leaders than usual, came around MONEL when entering the home stretch and, moving clear, had speed in reserve at the end. LADFIELD, close up and strongly ridden, finished with good courage in the final drive. WEST MAIN moved up stoutly entering the home stretch and continued stoutly to the finish. MONEL was weakly handled when the real test came. HOPE TO DO had speed for the first five furlongs. CRUISING would not extend himself.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—WARD IN CHANCERY, $14.40, $6.60, $3.80; GOLD PRIZE, $6.20, $3.40; GARLIC, $6.80.

WARD IN CHANCERY took command when approaching the home stretch and drew out steadily when kept under pressure. MODERN TIMES moved into a slight lead when leaving the back stretch, crowded GOLD PRIZE into the fence midway of the turn, and held on well. She was disqualified for causing a foul. GOLD PRIZE raced RUBE SAMUELSON into early defeat, was kept under stiff pressure, but had little chance after being crowded badly when midway of the final turn. GARLIC raced well placed and had no mishaps. FLAMING MAMIE had no mishaps.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:19. Off at 5:24. Winner, S. W. Two-dollar mutuels paid—DAMASCENE, $4.20, $2.60, $2.40; REVONAH, $3.80, $4.20; FAIRLY WILD, $4.80.

DAMASCENE, taken under stiff restraint while following REVONAH closely, was sent to the front without effort when reaching the home stretch and then came out readily. REVONAH, kept under pressure while making the pace, weakened all during the final drive. FAIRLY WILD moved up fast when nearing the final turn, but was held safe while easily best of the others. CANTERWOOD was unable to offer a threatening challenge. BUSY IKE stopped badly after having brief early speed.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:50. Off at 5:52. Winner, Mrs. W. H. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BUBOLA, $6.60, $4.00, $2.60; BUSTED, $5.00, $2.80; BURNSIDE, $2.40.

BUBOLA wore AUSTERLITZ II down after five furlongs, was placed to stout pressure when challenged by BUSTED and, holding on with good energy, came out slowly at the end. BUSTED, well placed and racing clear, made a determined effort at the stretch turn, but hung during the closing furlong. BURNSIDE, slow to get going, came samely in the final drive. FAIRDALE moved up leaving the back stretch, but was not good enough. SKIRT had no excuses. LIGHT BREEZE was weakly ridden. ERA stopped, as did AUSTERLITZ II.

Shields Team Defeated in France

AUTEUIL, France, May 23 (U.P.).—Frank Shields, former United States Davis Cup player, and Cillie Aussem, several times German champion, were defeated in a second-round mixed-doubles match in the French tennis championships today by Christian Boussus and Suzanne Barbier, of France, 3—6, 11—9, 7—5.

The defeat of the American-German team was a surprise, for they were liked to take the title. Shields and Fraulien Aussem came within one point of winning. They held match point in the fourteenth game of the second set.

The defending mixed doubles champions, Fred Perry and Betty Nuthall, of England, scored an easy 6—2, 6—2 victory over Andre Lacroix, Belgium, and Mary Dyson, England. In the first-round match, Mrs. Dorothy Andrus Burke, of Stamford, Conn., paired with Bela von Hehrling, Hungary, to eliminate Paul Feret and Jacqueline Goldschmidt, of France, 6—0, 6—4.

Mrs. Burke Bows In Doubles.

Mrs. Burke was not so fortunate in the women's doubles, however, she and her partner, Murell Thomas, England, bowing to the German combination of Cillie Aussem and Hilda Krahwinkel, 8—6, 6—2.

Helen Jacobs, No. 1 American player and that country's hope in the women's singles, gained the second round of the doubles when, with Ida Adamoff, Franco-Prussian star, as her partner, defeated the French team of Yvonne Chanove and Renee Wolfron. Another American to advance to the second round was Miss Elisabeth Ryan. Miss Ryan, playing with Simone Mathieu, French champion, defeated the Franco-British team of Mrs. John MacReady and Ellen Wilson, 6—2, 9—7. Miss Ryan, who is playing with Norman Farquharson, South Africa, gained the second round of the mixed doubles by default.

In first round men's doubles matches the Italian Davis Cup team, Giorgio De Stafani and Amenual Sertorio defeated Jean De Lamine and Jules De Leipine, of France, 7—5, 7—5, 6—4. In a second-round engagement the Szechoslovakian cup team of Roderich Menzel and Gottlieb Vorbrohrer defeated a German cup combination of Gottfried von Cramm and Kai Lunn, 6—4, 4—6, 2—6, 6—3, 6—3.

Tom Mangan Rallies to Score

Eliminates Garnett; Mitchell Extended by Shore.

Miss Sard's Victory Features Women's Quarter-Finals.

THE field of eligibles for City of Washington tennis championships narrowed to four in both men's and women's divisions yesterday as the semi-final stage of the proceedings hove into view.

Thrilling matches were the order of the day. Dooley Mitchell thwarted the championship aspirations of Frank Shore in straight sets, winning by a score of 11—9 and 7—5. Shore had five set points at his advantage in the first but was unable to win the deciding game.

Mangan Rallies to Beat Garnett.

Tom Mangan rallied to win over Muskoe Garnett when the latter threatened to spring an upset. Mangan lost the first set 4—6, and only after being overtaken at 6—6 in the second did he manage to muster enough shots to out-maneuvor his opponent for victory in the second. The third was Mangan's by a comfortable margin.

Abbie Sard's triumph over Marian Butler in three sets featured play in the women's division. Both contestants waged a spirited battle before the former came through with the deciding game in the final set.

Mitchell and Tony Latona are favored to meet in the finals of the men's singles. The first round in women's doubles will open today.

MARBERRY HURLS NATS INTO DEFEAT

of a hit. Greenberg walked and took third when Travis threw wildly on Rogell's grounder and he scored on Hayworth's fly to center.

Pete Fox opened the third with a single. Gehringer followed with a double and Stone doubled off the right field wall, the second of his four hits of the day, to score Fox. Walker grounded to Cronin and Gehringer scored, but Stone was trapped off second, only to scramble back safely when Myer dropped Travis' throw. Greenberg singled into right scoring Stone and putting Walker on third, from where he scored when Owen drilled into a double play.

Buddy Myer made the first hit off Marberry in the fourth and was pushed around the bases on Manush's walk and Cronin's single through the box. Travis lopped a single into center in the fifth and was the last Nat to reach base, falling a double-play victim on Sewell's roller to Rogell.

Full U. S. Net Strength Gathered at Chevy Chase

AMERICA'S four sturdy tennis stars who are to meet the challenge of the Argentine champions in the interzone Davis Cup matches tomorrow, Friday and Saturday at Chevy Chase, were on the scene of battle yesterday, but only two of the quartet, Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn, indulged in workouts on the courts.

Allison and Van Ryn played for more than an hour in a singles match against one another, as a number of spectators looked on with interest. Both appeared to be in marvelous condition. Allison's volleying was terrific, while Van Ryn's backcourt shots were well-nigh perfect.

The elongated Ellsworth Vines, American and Wimbledon title holder, failed to put in his appearance on the courts, prefering to limber up with a round of golf.

Vines already has indicated that he has had enough tennis to be in prime shape for the Argentinians. This morning he will practice for the first time. George Lott, the fourth member of the team, who will team with Van Ryn in the doubles, said he would limber up with a practice this morning and afternoon.

The three Argentines, Capt. Adriano Zappa, Hector Cataruzza and Adelmar Echeverria, went through their eleventh day of practice. They worked away feverishly throughout the afternoon on the adjoining courts nearby the Americans.

The Davis Cup matches will begin tomorrow at 2:30 o'clock. At 2:10 the participants will make their appearance on the courts. High dignitaries will be in attendance.

The umpires will be chosen from the following well-known tennis players: Conrad B. Doyle, Arthur Hellen, Tom Mangan, Clarence Charest and Commander Vincent H. Godfrey.

Louis I. Doyle, popular Departmental Leaguer, will judge foot faults for the matches.

The linesmen are Gen. Robert H. Allen, Capt. E. J. House, Capt. R. Z. Crane, Commander Theodore Wilkinson, Lieut. Serat and Lieut Roy Graham, Marshall O. Exnicios, G. T. Garnett, W. Owen Howenstein, Harrison B. Irwin, James L. Karrick, Joseph S. Rutley, H. L. Sheppard, John G. Ladd, E. K. Morris, Otto Glocker.

The first singles match on Thursday will be umpired by Arthur Hellen and the second by T. J. Mangan.

A. Y. Leech, jr., former treasurer of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, will serve as referee.

Saint Lacrossers To Play Maryland

Following its 6-3 defeat at the hands of Johns Hopkins in Baltimore last week, Maryland faces St. John's in the final game of its lacross season Saturday at College Park with a dark outlook. Norwood Sothoron, defense ace, who was injured in the Hopkins game, will be discharged from the hospital today, but little hope is held for his ability to play Saturday.

St. John's will present a revamped team against the Terrapins. The Johnnies held Army's powerful ten to a 4-3 score the week after Hopkins trimmed the West Pointers, 6-2. The Annapolitans have high hopes of establishing themselves as the second-best lacross team in the State.

Coach Jack Faber is in a dilemma concerning a substitute to fill Sothoron's shoes. Herman Remsburg and Henry Schaaf, two sophs who have not had very much experience, are the outstanding contenders for the position.

Maryland trimmed St. John's last year, 5-2, but in the three years previous failed to register a victory. These three victories are the only ones the bay city team has scored over Maryland since 1920.

Eastern 18-8 Victor Over Western

Winners Get 21 Hits to Clinch Third Place in Race.

EASTERN saved third place from Western in the final game of the interhigh school series for both teams yesterday, winning over its Georgetown rival by a score of 18 to 8 in a game as interesting as the weekly meeting of the Hickville Ladies Sewing Circle.

Twenty-one hits, three of them home runs, were culled from the offerings of three Western hurlers as the Lincoln Parkers amassed the greatest number of runs scored by any team in a series game this year.

At the outset visions of another upset were plainly visible on the horizon. Joe Sullivan was none too steady on the mound and the Red Sox pounced on the young Eastern southpaw for four runs in the first inning. Eastern got one of these back in its half of the frame, but was held scoreless until the fifth.

Western Rallies Again In Sixth.

Again in the sixth Western came through with a trio of bingles that added three runs to its score, but alas and alack, Eastern previously had scored five in the fourth and six in the opening half of the sixth. Cleary took up the hurling for Eastern in the seventh and held the opposition well in check.

Joe Mills, the kid who swings from the heels, cracked out four hits for the winners, running the gamut of base hits. Fitzpatrick and Smith duplicated his home run, Fitz's blow clearing the center field barrier by half a city block.

De Stephan, Corcoran and Wood did some fancy clouting for Coach Cliff Moore's boys, but the hitting was not consistent enough to hinder Eastern's victory march.

G. W. Seeks 5th Victory Tonight

Washington College to Invade; Game Ends Season Here.

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY closes its baseball season tonight at Griffith Stadium, where Washington College will be encountered at 8 o'clock. Victory for the Colonials will give them a record of five victories and four defeats and the season will be considered successful.

Preceding the game there will be a band and fife and drum corps contest starting at 7 o'clock. Several local bands and American Legion Drum Corps are entered. A silver loving-cup will be awarded the winning unit in each division.

Judges for the contest will be Capt. William J. Stannard, leader of the U. S. Army Band; Lieut. Charles Sina, leader of the Naval Academy Band; Warrant Officer Louis Yasel, leader of the Third Cavalry Band, Fort Myer.

Brusiloff Directs Contest.

The contest will be under the direction of Lieut. Leon Brusiloff, former conductor of the Fox Theater orchestra and leader of the Sixth Marine Reserve Band, and Gunner Horace Talbot, of the Quantico Marine Band. The Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the affair.

Jimmy Howell will start on the mound for the Colonials with Cal Griffith ready for relief duty. Young Griffith appears to be the most reliable moundsman uncovered by Coach Ed Morris, but Howell has been progressing rapidly and will be given the opportunity of redeeming himself for several previous failures.

Little is known of the Eastern Shoremen's strength aside from the fact that they pasted a 4-2 defeat on Delaware, which split even with the District nine.

G. U. Visitation Golf Brings Close Matches

First-round matches were played in the golf tournament which the young girls of the Georgetown Visitation Convent are staging this week at the course. The matches were unusually close.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

A FORERUNNER of many which will be heard throughout the summer, the first broadcast to reach the networks from the grounds of the Chicago Exposition will be the dedication ceremonies this afternoon of the General Motors Building. (WRC, WJSV, 1:30.)

Invitations will be broadcast to the entire world to attend the exposition. Alfred P. Sloan, jr., president of General Motors, will address the English-speaking people. Hugo F. Simon, German Consul at Chicago; Giuseppe Casturchio, Italian Consul; Jean Jacques Rene Weiler, French Consul, and Sebastian de Romero, Spanish Consul, will repeat the invitations in their native tongues.

The General Motors Building, which itself will be opened officially on Saturday, includes a million-dollar assembly plant, where visitors may see how Chevrolets are put together.

It will be possible for a prospective owner to place his order for a car, watch it assembled along the line, and drive away in it.

The coronation of the Queen of the Century of Progress will be heard Friday and Saturday. The formal opening of the exposition will be broadcast in great detail. Following that there will be broadcasts daily from the exposition grounds.

Fannie Brice says there is more work on one one-half hour radio program a week than playing a theater eight times a week.

THE All-Star After Dinner Club will make its debut over WJSV at 9:30 o'clock tonight. It will comprise many of the luminaries of the local broadcasting world, including Marguerite Cromwell, James Wilkerson and Rudy Schramm's Orchestra.

An added attraction will be Do-Re-Mi, harmony trio, a Columbia feature usually heard from New York, who will journey to Washington each week for this program.

The program will be sponsored by the Borden Company.

The finals of the National Young Artists' contest conducted by State Federations of Music Clubs will be broadcast from Minneapolis, over WRC at 10:30 p. m. Seven classifications will be represented in the broadcast, woman's voice, man's voice, opera voice, violin, piano, 'cello and organ, and the two best in each classification will be heard during the program. The winners will receive from the National Federation of Music Clubs prizes of $1,000 in each classification.

Julia Coburn, fashion editor of the Ladies' Home Journal, will be heard in the Woman's Radio Review, over WRC at 2:30 p. m. Her subject will be "Summer Sport Clothes."

Bert Lahr played ten years with a dialect somewhat resembling Jack Pearl's, whose part he once took in a stage production. In recent years Bert has dropped the dialect entirely.

THE celebration of Empire Day will come from London this afternoon at 2 o'clock over WJSV. The purpose of the broadcast will be to depict a cross-section of English life.

As "Big Ben" booms over the roar of London traffic American listeners will be whisked through the city's streets in a succession of sound impressions. Following the army of commuters to the suburbs, the next scene will be the home of an average family, with phonograph and radio playing. Motor horns will come in over these sounds as the audience is taken along a main highway to the quiet countryside, where the bells of an age-old cathedral are carried on the peaceful evening air.

Then comes a shift to the seacoast, and the impressions of a busy port will be heard, with the bands playing on the pier, whistles of the ocean liners, and the shriller signals of the puffing tugs as the great ships are docked. The return to the city is made by way of one of the famous express trains. As the cars speed by factories in important industrial centers, the piercing whistles will be heard signaling the end of the day's work.

Premier Ramsay MacDonald has been invited to speak at the conclusion of the Empire Day program.

The voice of King George of England will again be heard in the United States as he addresses the opening session of the World Economic Conference in London June 12.

WARING'S Pennsylvanians and Mandy Lou, comedienne, will be presented over an enlarged network of stations each Wednesday at 9 p. m., beginning tonight.

Approximately 80 radio stations will relay this half-hour presentation, which is heard here over WJSV. This is an increase of twenty outlets, making the Old Gold chain the greatest number of stations now carrying a regular weekly program, the sponsors claim.

Because of the success of its recent broadcasts from large auditoriums in Baltimore and Washington before invited audiences, the sponsors decided to lease the Chamber Music Hall of Carnegie Hall in New York. Hereafter, the weekly presentations will originate on the stage of the chamber before 500 spectators.

The silver anniversary program of the Rhode Island Avenue Citizens Association will be picked up by WMAL at 4:45 o'clock this afternoon.

Bobby Boken and Cecil Travis, young infielders of the Washington baseball team, will be the guests of Radio Joe (WMAL, 6:30 p. m.).

Emma Egolf, 6814 Ninth street northwest, has won seventh prize in the fifth Jim Hanvey contest of the Townsend Murder Mystery of the Westinghouse Company.

Contestants were required to select clues in the final episodes of the mystery play, which answered the question, "Who killed John Prosser?" The sole judge of the contest was Octavus Roy Cohen, author of the radio serial. Miss Egolf's prize will be an electric floor lamp.

What Today Means

"GEMINI."

IF May 24 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to 12 noon, from 3 p. m. to 3:45 p. m. and from 8:30 p. m. to 9:25 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:40 a. m. to 8:30 a. m. and from 5 p. m. to 6:10 p. m.

The child born on this May 24 will in all probability get "the breaks" all through life. He will probably have a gift for languages and in composition he should excel. He will likely have neither the eye nor the touch to perform any manual work requiring accuracy and precision. An indoor existence with little physical activity will be his.

Born on May 24, you have a rather "smooth" way with people and you seem to know how to get along with the various types of people. You probably have a pretty good insight into human nature and at a glance you seem to be able to "size up" a person. You are inclined to be meticulous in your dress. In the matter of foods you are probably rather fussy about what you eat. At times you are tempted to be untrue to your marital vow, but at that your home is more than likely a very happy and harmonious one.

A New Yorker at Large

By MARK BARRON

NEW YORK—Diana Wynyard, the British actress who has won considerable attention on these shores during the last year, might still be an unknown stock actress if Benn Levy hadn't been ogling about a London hotel lobby one afternoon.

As a matter of fact, the erudite playright wasn't really ogling. He was sitting in a telephone booth, waiting (of course) for his number when he happened to glance across the lobby. There passed a lovely, blonde girl and one, he decided, that he had to meet immediately. For, he was sure, she was the one woman in the world who could play the leading role in his new drama, "The Devil's Disciple."

By the time he had gotten out of the booth, the girl had disappeared. He hired detectives and other such measures, but he could not locate her.

In despair, he journeyed up to Manchester to see a stock company act one of his plays. The leading woman of the troupe was the one he sought—Diana Wynyard. Coincidence?

Afraid of Reporters.

A vivid recollection of Miss Wynyard is that when she first arrived in New York she was extremely frightened of New York reporters. A shy, withdrawing girl, she had heard that they were devastating in their cross-examinations, and that only the most formidable of celebrities were able to cope with their questions.

So it is understandable that she was frightened into speechlessness when she faced her first reporter on this side. It happened, however, that the first reporter she met was a man of understanding. He said to her:

"Miss Wynyard, this interview, so far, is a failure. You seem to be frightened. Now, just talk to me as if I were an old friend. Trust me to write a good story and trust me to write a true picture of yourself. Will you, please?"

From then on, she never has been afraid of American reporters.

DICK TRACY—Why Bring That Up?

IT'S SO GRAND TO SEE YOU AGAIN, DICK! TELL ME ALL ABOUT JUNIOR AND HIS FATHER...AND YOUR THRILLING CAPTURE OF STEVE. YOU KNOW I HAVEN'T SEEN YOU FOR WEEKS -AND YOU DIDN'T EVEN WRITE ME WHILE YOU WERE GONE.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

NORMAL in other respects, but with his heart outside his body, little William Scraggins, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Scraggins, of Roanoke Rapids, N. C., astounded the medical world by living and growing despite the fact his life is fraught with constant danger. His heart is enveloped in a sack of muscle and cartilage, where, extending out of his abdomen, it beats as faithfully and regularly as if it were in its normal place inside the chest cavity.

His is an unparalleled case, doctors say. Although other instances are known where a child was born with his heart similarly contained in a sack outside the body, the principal did not live any length of time.

William's parents, of course, must be particularly careful of their son, and he can not romp and play as other children, because a bad jar might result in injury to his heart.

Pilot Wensinger is in the Government service as a "weather" pilot. It is his duty to take off each morning and find out what the weather is like up in the clouds. He makes his observation trip up to about 20,000 feet, leveling off at regular intervals of 1,500 feet to observe conditions. He flies about 200 miles a day—each flight beginning and ending at the same field.

88-YEAR SPLIT ENDS WHEN GROUPS UNITE AT BAPTIST SESSION

While the Rev. George W. Truett, noted Baptist minister of Dallas, Tex., pointed to the need for "an unfailing faith," 7,000 Baptists of the North and South sat side by side for the first time in 88 years last night.

Washington Auditorium was packed to the doors as Dr. Truett, with the magic of emotion-stirring words, declared that without the necessary faith all missionary work and all other efforts of Baptists might as well cease.

"There is no need for any perplexity about faith," Dr. Truett observed. "Faith holds all things together. But unfortunately faith is often misplaced. We put it into the material instead of the spiritual. This tendency is an everpresent peril with the people of God."

Dr. Barbour Speaks.

"Our need is for a consciousness of God and His sovereignty," Dr. Truett continued. "We are not worshiping an absentee God, but one who can cast down or lift up a Nation in the twinkling of an eye."

Dr. Clarence A. Barbour, president of Brown University, gave an eloquent description of "the lame men." He showed that everyone is lame in one way or another, regardless of whether he is sound physically, pointing out that each one of us has an inner core of personality that none of the rest of the world knows about.

Dr. Barbour declared that it should be the duty of the State to see that every man has a fair chance, that the State has other obligations outside of the preservation of peace.

Hold Joint Session.

Last night's session concluded the one-day session of Northern and Southern Baptists. The reunited groups, severed by differences of opinion on the question of slavery in 1845, began the day's celebration with the dedication of the National Baptist Memorial Church, Sixteenth street and Columbia road northwest, early yesterday morning.

Dr. Barbour presided at the dedication. The Rev. J. B. Lawrence, secretary of the Southern Home Mission Board, gave the invocation. Greetings were exchanged by the presidents of the Northern and Southern conventions.

A tinge of sadness was given the ceremony by the absence of Dr. W. J. McGlothlin, president of Furman University, who is reported near death as the result of an automobile accident near Kings Mountain, N. C., while on the way to the convention. Mrs. McGlothlin was killed in the accident.

Sweatshops Attacked.

The Rev. Bernard C. Clausen, of Syracuse, N. Y., gave the prayer of dedication. Then the Rev. Frank A. Smith, secretary of the missions of the American Baptist Home Mission Society, gave the benediction.

At the morning session, Dr. J. Clyde Turner, of Greensboro, N. C., speaker for the Southern Baptists, appealed to the united forces of the Baptist churches to meet "problems of the world which effect human welfare. He delivered a strong attack against sweatshops, and called on churches to speak out on the subject of war.

E. W Sikes, president of Clemson College, S. C., addressing a men's meeting at the Calvary Baptist Church yesterday afternoon, declared that the Holy Grail may yet be found in the South. He appealed for a subjugation of individualism and the lending of whole-hearted support by the laymen of the church.

Human Progress Urged.

Speaking on behalf of Northern Baptists, C. C. Tillinghast, headmaster of the Horace Mann School for Boys at New York, outlined a course for an adventure "in the realm of trying to find out the real values of life." He said that to achieve the right goals men must change just a little bit faster than the times.

William Travers Jerome, jr., chairman of the National Council of Northern Baptist Men, presided. Invocation was given by the Rev. G. G. Johnson, pastor of National Baptist Memorial Church. A musical program was presented under auspices of the Men's Council of the District.

After the meeting, the Northern and Southern Baptist men gathered at a fellowship dinner at the Calvary Baptist Church. Dr. C. Oscar Johnson, president of the Northern Baptist Convention, and Dr. M. E. Dodd, acting president of the Southern Baptist Convention, were applauded as they exchanged greeting and clasped hands.

J. H. Anderson Presides.

J. H. Anderson, chairman of the Baptist Brotherhood of the South, presided at the dinner which was enlivened by fun and song.

From the dining hall, the men went to the Washington Auditorium for the joint session.

While the men were meeting yesterday afternoon, Baptist women of the North and South met in Constitution Hall. Mrs. O. E. Howe, president of the Women's Baptist Missionary Association of the District, presided.

Women Hold Session.

The speakers were: Mrs. W. J. Cox, president of the Woman's Missionary Union of the Southern Baptist Convention; Mrs. H. E. Goodman, president of the Woman's American Baptist Foreign Mission Society and Mrs. George C. Moore, president of the Woman's American Baptist Home Mission Society.

Brief reports of Home and Foreign Missions were given by Miss Katherine Mallory, of Birmingham, Ala.; Miss Blance Wu, of China; Miss Grace Main, of Burma; Miss Dorothy Bucklin, representing the New England district, and Miss Pearl Vilhauer, of Detroit, Mich.

The Northern Baptist Convention will continue all this week.

Mr. Smith introduced his guest, Frank E. Carstarpher, assistant corporation counsel for the City of New York, who described the accomplishments of President Roosevelt since inauguration.

Among other speakers and guests were Capt. N. O. Holmes, of No. 1 Police Precinct Station, and M. B. Wooding, of Asheville, N. C.

A program of musical entertainment and dancing followed.

The regulation specifically states that the tags shall not be used on cars used as service cars or rented for hire or for delivery or transportation purposes.

COURT HEARS DENIAL OF ACCUSED SLAYER

Man Takes Stand in Fatal Stabbing of Proprietor of Lunch Room.

Nick Alexopolous, 47, yesterday took the witness stand in his own defense and denied that he murdered Christos Haralampidis, elderly proprietor of a lunch room at 511 Ninth street northwest, four years ago.

The Government contends, in a case based on circumstantial evidence, that Alexopolous fatally stabbed the cafe owner with an ice pick in a second-floor room at the Ninth street address. The man was arrested in Harrisburg, Pa., several months ago and has since been incarcerated in jail here.

Through Attorneys James A. O'Shea, Alfred Goldstein and Soterios Nicholson, Alexopolous yesterday was directed through his extensive movements since he left Washington on the night of the alleged crime. He traced his movements and declared he first learned he was wanted here almost four years after Haralampidis was slain.

Assistant United States Attorney James R. Fitzpatrick, on behalf of the Government, charged that the murder was committed for the purpose of robbery. The case will go to the jury today, as Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue yesterday directed the attorneys to prepare their written requests for jury restrictions to him this morning.

No Change Is Reported In Condition of Marye

The condition of George T. Marye, 84, former United States Ambassador to Russia, who is critically ill at his home, 1800 N street northwest, remains the same, it was reported early today.

Mr. Marye, a native of Baltimore, has maintained a home here for 30 years. He is the youngest son of the late George Thomas Marye, of pioneer Virginia stock, and French Huguenot descent, and of Helen Tucker Marye, daughter of one of Baltimore's foremost business men.

Leaders in Parley On District Relief

Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, chairman of the Board of District Commissioners, yesterday conferred with George S. Wilson, director of public welfare, regarding the District's right to apply for a portion of $500,000,000 relief now being disbursed under direction of Harry L. Hopkins to the States.

Mr. Wilson said that he would make application for approximately $135,000 just as soon as the funds are opened to general distribution. It is his understanding, he said, that disbursements so far have been of an emergency nature only.

The District emergency relief committee has enough money remaining to carry on its present scale of unemployment aid until June 10 or 15, Mr. Wilson said, and it is hoped by that time that the Federal donation will be available.

Leg of Lamb Evidence In Kosher Meat Trial

A leg of lamb, not usually viewed as an exhibit in a court action, threatens to cause some of the Government prosecutors sleepless nights until June 7, it was indicated in Police court yesterday when Frank Miller, who was charged with a violation of the kosher meat act, was arraigned.

He demanded a jury trial, and when Roger Robb, assistant United States attorney, pointed out that a leg of lamb was a substantial portion of the Government's case, the trial went over until May 31, which was found to be a Jewish holiday. Then the case went over until June, and the leg is on a huge hunk of ice so that when, and if, it is shown to a jury, the members will not have to hold their noses.

STOCK SALE DRIVE IN PROPOSED BANK MERGER NEAR GOAL

Depositors and Investors of Franklin National Urge It to Stay Separate.

First results of a subscription campaign on the part of six local restricted banks for $1,250,000 worth of new stock to open the new "Hamilton National Bank of Washington" and make available 50 per cent of the deposits of these banks, approximately $10,000,000, are expected to be announced today following a meeting of the subscription committee for the movement.

Favorable reaction to the plan was reported yesterday by officials of the six banks definitely committed to it. For some of these, the campaign has been under way two days; for others, but one day. The campaign of Woodridge-Langdon Savings & Commercial Bank to secure its quota of the stock, between $30,000 and $35,000, began yesterday.

20 Per Cent Subscribed.

Officials of Washington Savings Bank, another of the six, reported 20 per cent of its quota of $50,000 already subscribed. Officials of Potomac Savings Bank, a third bank in the plan, announced a very good response for the past two days without any solicitation. Officials of Northeast Savings Bank, the quota of which is $100,000, report a number of stockholders and depositors converting stock already subscribed to the original plan of that institution to reopen independently to stock for the consolidation plan. They will be asked to subscribe a minimum of but 12½ per cent of their deposits under the latter plan, while under the original one 25 per cent was required. At Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co. and District National Bank very favorable responses are being reported.

Officers of Franklin National Bank, which seeks to reopen independently under that title, said yesterday that they are receiving both mail and telephonic requests from their stockholders and depositors to retain the identity of that institution and reopen as Franklin National Bank.

Volunteers Will Meet.

"We are on our last mile in securing the 75 per cent of consents required under the bank conservation act to reopen independently," they added.

Stockholders of United States Savings Bank said yesterday that no general expression favoring the entrance of that institution into the Hamilton Bank plan was made at a recent meeting of that group and from which Col. Wade H. Cooper, president of the bank and owner of more than half of its stock, was reported absent. Col. Cooper has announced he has submitted a plan to reopen the institution independently to the Treasury Department and is awaiting its action.

A meeting of volunteer workers in the sale of $300,000 worth of stock to reopen Industrial Savings Bank as a national bank will be held this evening at the Twelfth street northwest branch of the Y. M. C. A.

D. C. Vote Rejected By Little Congress

By a 38-19 vote the "Little Congress" meeting last night at the caucus room of the House of Representatives, rejected the question of representation in Congress for the District of Columbia after two of its members had debated the proposition.

The debaters were John M. Robsion, of Kentucky, who favored the question, and Haskell Tidwell, of California, whose argument against was successful in persuading his listeners.

The Little Congress is an organization of the secretaries of members of Congress and other legislative employes at the Capitol.

TRAFFIC TOLL

TO DATE.

The mechanical condition of a vehicle is far more important than its appearance. Many drivers who would not think of driving an automobile which is spotted and muddy, neglect the condition of the safety appliances on their vehicle.

Brakes, stop signals, headlights, as well as the motor contribute to the safety of a vehicle. Provide the same measure of protection to passengers and pedestrians that you would expect when you are on foot.

The figures are:

Deaths	48	26
Injuries	1,498	1,367

GORE HELD IN CRASH BY CORONER'S JURY

Auto Accident, Which Killed Former Jockey, Will Be Probed Further.

Marvin C. Gore, 27, salesman, 536 First street southeast, was held for action of the grand jury last night by a Prince Georges County coroner's jury. Gore was involved in an accident Sunday morning in which Foster A. Anderson, 35, former jockey, was killed.

Albert T. McClay, 2907 Carlton avenue northeast, the first to arrive on the scene of the accident on Simon's Hill, 1 mile from Bladensburg, Md., described the scene of the tragedy.

Thomas Brewer and Raymond Brown, Bladensburg, told of seeing Gore trying to extricate Anderson from the wreckage. Dr. Don T. Maloney, Cheverly, Md., testified that the man died from a compound fracture of the skull.

The accident occurred about 7 a. m. Sunday. According to Gore, Anderson had offered him a drink of whisky at the Bowie race track shortly before they left to return to Washington. He refused, he said.

On the way back, Gore continued, Anderson, who was driving, began to swerve the car. Failing in efforts to stop him, Gore opened the door and leaped as Anderson fell across the seat and the car crashed into a tree, the defendant asserted.

Anderson, whose permanent address was given as Jacksonville, Fla., was said to have as a local address 1106 K street northwest.

A desire to have fewer but completely enforceable traffic regulations rather than many which could not be enforced in their entirety was expressed yesterday by William A. Van Duzer in speaking at the Civitan Club luncheon at the Hamilton Hotel.

During the course of his remarks he said that Thirteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest is the busiest intersection for automobile traffic in the city. There, between 4:30 and 5:30 p. m., an average of 4,300 cars pass. An average of 3,200 pedestrians pass at Twelfth and F streets northwest, the busiest pedestrian intersection, during the same hour, he said.
